NEW PROBLEMS
IN POLITICS
ARE EVOLVED

Week-End Conference in Bismarck Increase National Political Tension
THE PLAN OF RECALL
Takes Over 57,000 Names To Gain Recall Election on Three Judges

Increased tension in national politics in the state, renewed pressure on A. G. Sorlie, Nonpartisan League candidate for Governor by LaFollette forces, and the prospect of a recall election at the time of the November general election on three judges of the supreme court, evolved from week-end political meetings in this city.

The meetings failed to clarify the situation with respect to presidential elections, although action taken is likely to make it advantageous to LaFollette forces to have the four Republican electoral candidates who are LaFollette men, to resign from the Republican column. The LaFollette group, however, failed to take any action which would clarify the situation which confronted the Independent Republicans in their conference at Fargo last week.

Outstanding features of the week-end conferences are:
Movement initiated by Association of Depositors of Closed Banks to recall Justices Sveinbjorn Johnson, W. E. Nussle and L. E. Birdzell of the supreme court.

Naming of E. A. Vogel of Coleharbor as LaFollette campaign manager and appointment of a committee with representatives of various factions on it.

Further linking of Nonpartisan League with LaFollette movement, in spite of the attitude of A. G. Sorlie, League candidate for Governor.

Decision of the Nonpartisan League executive committee to revert to its old basis, with a salaried campaign manager, the result of continued differences in the League executive committee.

Postponement of efforts of LaFollette group to establish new political party, with name satisfactory to him, but different from Farmer-Labor or Nonpartisan League Party, until calling of convention, probably on Labor Day. LaFollette electors to be named at the same time.

It is no secret among Nonpartisans that old and new differences have cropped out in their organization. The notion of N. H. Dinond of Grand Forks who has been a lieutenant of A. G. Sorlie, that LaFollette electors and League candidates unsuccessful in the Republican primary, be named in a new party ticket, was regarded as an undercurrent of the effect to force Sorlie into a declaration of support for some candidate for President.

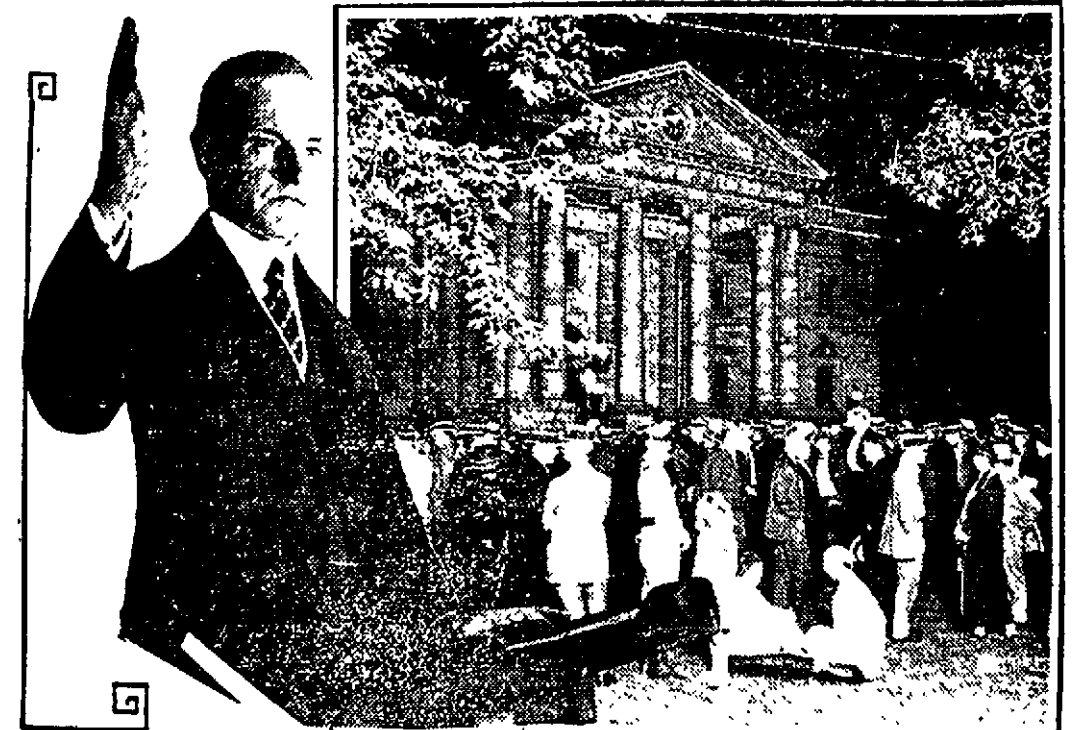

While the LaFollette organization named a committee, composed of William Langer, William Lemke, F. O. Hellstrom, L. J. Wehe and Dr. L. S. Platou, to investigate the situation and see if a new party column can be obtained on the November election ballot, this generally is regarded by those familiar with party affairs in the state as being impossible of fulfillment.

The LaFollette electors and League candidates will have to vote in the "individual nominations column," it is held.

The LaFollette campaign committee as follows: F. A. Vogel, (Coleharbor, chairman); Simon Lemke, (J. V. A. Republican); R. H. Walker, (Farmer-Labor); Ralph Ingerson, (Nonpartisan); James Cook, (Railway Employees); Mrs. C. A. Fisher, (Nonpartisan Woman's Club); Wm. Langer, (Hiram Johnson primary committee); Albert Vaddington, (Coal Miners); Dr. L. S. Platou, "progressive Democrat." One other member, to represent the American Legion, is to be named.

The Recall Plan
The Association of Depositors of closed banks in the state of which E. D. Dyck of Slope County is head, is LaFollette entirely separate from the LaFollette meeting, but many of those at the LaFollette meeting drifted into it, and took part in discussions.

DR. SHORTRIDGE
IS ARRESTED ON NEW CHARGE

Given Hearing in Sioux County on Charge of Performing Criminal Operation

SAY GIRL CONFESSES

Fort Yates, N. D., Aug. 18.—Dr. W. R. Shortridge of Flasher was to have a hearing here this afternoon on a charge of having performed a criminal operation on a woman giving her name as Miss Alice Marshall, aged 23, of Lemmon, South Dakota.

Shortridge's arrest on this charge followed an examination conducted by Dr. A. A. Whittemore, state health officer, who asserted positively that a criminal operation had been performed, and First Assistant Attorney-General John Thorpe said that the girl had confessed to him and Dr. Whittemore that Dr. Shortridge had performed the operation.

Shortridge, who is now under $5,000 bond for appearance in Stark county at the November term of court to answer a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Angela Holta of Bismarck, was tried Saturday afternoon on a charge of having registered at the Standing Rock Hotel under a fictitious name, found guilty by a justice of the peace, fined $50 and sentenced to 15 days in jail. He gave notice of appeal.

While Dr. Shortridge was being held on this and a statutory charge, Mr. Thorpe, Dr. Whittemore, States Attorney L. H. Connelly of Morton county and States Attorney George J. Dwyer of Sioux county, were conducting an examination of the case.

Dr. Shortridge, according to Mr. Thorpe, had registered with the girl as William Roberts and wife on Thursday night, was called in the country to answer a call, and on Friday night performed an abortion.

The girl, he said, made a complete confession. The girl said she came from Lemmon, South Dakota, to Flasher and that Dr. Shortridge insisted they go to Ft. Yates.

The girl is said not to be in serious condition. Officials suspect she gave an assumed name.

Shaffer Aids
Attorney-General George Shaffer is in close touch with proceedings here. The Attorney-General promptly threw the whole force of his office behind the prosecution when appealed to by States Attorney Purchess. J. M. Hanley of Mandan was here representing the girl, who had retained him as attorney, he said.

Darrow Secures Admission Intended to Bolster Up His Gland Theory

IS FUNNY TO CROWD

Chicago, Aug. 18. (By the A. P.)—The underling gland affects the emotional life, according to an admission which Clarence P. Darrow, chief counsel for Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, drew today from Dr. H. Douglas Singer on cross-examination in the Franks hearing. The answer came reluctantly in this form:

"Are the endocrine glands part of the emotional life?"
"Yes, sir."
"Do they affect it?"
"If they are part of it, they must affect it."

"Why not say so in the first place?"
"Well, I thought my answer more complete than your question."

The exchange was typical of a spirited contest at wits between the attorney and witness which at times caused spectators to titter as the two banded words. Such terms as "eccentric," "psychopathic personality" and "pathological" struck some of the court fans as comical and halliffs had to warn such persons several times to maintain composure.

The cross-examination was directed toward an attempt to get from the state witness that physical characteristics found were signs of mental disease. The doctor shied away from mention of the latter but readily discussed the former when presented to him in an academic sense. Phantasies and hallucinations were given by Dr. Singer as "signs of insanity" but he qualified it by adding "sometimes."

He once acknowledged that Loeb's habits of imagining himself "a master criminal" was "in a sense" an hallucination.

Ten thousand people were guests at the wedding of a rabbi's daughter in Rumania.

POLICE SEEK NEW EVIDENCE AGAINST 'KID'

Hear He Met Friend Half Hour After Shooting, and Confessed to Him

MCCOY REMAINS SILENT

JEWELS STOLEN
Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—Jewels valued at $5000 were taken from the body of Mrs. Theresa W. Mors when she died from a bullet wound in her brain last Tuesday, attorneys for the husband announced today.

Los Angeles, Aug. 18.—While police today searched the city for new evidence supporting the two confessions they allege Kid McCoy has already made to the slaying of Mrs. Theresa Mors, early last Wednesday, attorneys under orders from the District Attorney, were preparing to conclude an examination of the former prize fighter, designed to furnish any connection by his attorney that he was and is incapable of making any true confession.

The alleged confession was revealed yesterday when the District Attorney's investigators announced they have the name of a Hollywood friend of McCoy who met the ex-pugilist less than a half hour after the shooting of Mrs. Mors and then heard what he then thought was a wild, drunken yarn of a woman slain and a half dozen other persons yet to be slain.

Detectives early today were trying to serve a subpoena on this witness, commanding him to appear before the grand jury tomorrow. Until they find him it was announced his name will be withheld.

Meanwhile the district attorney was prepared to go before the grand jury with McCoy's alleged confession to his sister, Mrs. Jennie Thomas, his own admission that he was in the apartment when a bullet killed Mrs. Mors and the testimony of friends of the woman who said she feared McCoy would kill her if she outlived him.

Since the day of his arrest on suspicion of murder when he told police Mrs. Mors shot herself in his presence and his wounding of three persons in a shopping district shooting later was the result of grief over her death, the one-time Beau Brummel of the prize ring has sat sullenly in his cell, observing the advice of his attorney, not to talk about the case.

START PAVING
WORK SOON

Work of paving the gravel road between the Missouri River bridge and the Northern Pacific underpass this side of Mandan will be started by the Northern Construction Company of Grand Forks, under present plans. The company has a crew building supply houses for the paving job.

It is estimated by W. G. Black, state engineer, that it will require about 30 days to complete the actual paving after the work is started. During the time the road is blocked off, the old road through the woods, used when the ferry conveyed passengers across the river, will be used.

The Woodrich Construction Company, which has been paving an extension of Mandan's Main street through the underpass, has completed its work, and the road will be opened when the concrete has set.

EXPECT FRENCH,

London Newspapers Optimistic Over Situation—Seen Great Step for Europe

REINHOLD EVACUATION
Strasbourg, Alsace, France, Aug. 18.—French troops began the evacuation of Ossenbourg and Appenweil this morning and it was expected that they would be entirely out of the German towns sometime tonight.

HERRIOT CHEERED
Paris, Aug. 18.—Premier Herriot came back from London today like a conquering hero. At the Gare St. Lazare he was cheered as no premier had been cheered for years by a crowd of many thousands.

London, Aug. 18.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today sent letters to Premier Herriot and Premier Theunis of Belgium, urging that France and Belgium take every possible step to evacuate the Ruhr in less than the one year agreed upon at the conference.

"In the opinion of the British government," said the Prime Minister, "continued occupation may prejudice and jeopardize the arrangements agreed to at the London conference."

London, Aug. 18.—The program for launching the Dawes reparations plan, initiated by the delegates to the international conference which closed here Saturday, now goes before the French parliament and the German Reichstag for action. Prospects are favorable for its adoption by both bodies, according to dispatches from both capitals.

The Nationalists in Germany, as was expected, are leading the opposition to the program but it is declared they will scarcely go so far as to adopt a parliamentary attitude which would result in defeat of the government, dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections, in which they could not hope to better their position.

Paris advances are that the French parliament has practically decided to sustain the foreign policy of Premier Herriot for the time being. There is likely to be an extensive debate with pointed interpellations, but no determined drive against Mr. Herriot's part in the London agreement is expected.

It is hoped that the ratification will be forthcoming within the next fortnight so that representatives of all the interested powers can re-assemble here on August 30 for formal signature to the agreement.

SLIGHT MACDONALD

London, Aug. 18.—The results of the London conference are criticized favorably by most of the London morning newspapers as the beginning of the process of restoring order in Europe. As the Westminster Gazette puts it "an ugly corner has been turned with perhaps sufficient impetus and a sufficient margin of safety to carry European countries safely through the years of readjustment."

With the exception of the Labor Party organ, The Herald, the papers withheld from Ramsay MacDonald personal credit for the successful outcome but it is generally acknowledged that his position and that of his party has been greatly strengthened.

There is a tone of great optimism for the future expressed by the interest shown by the United States in the London meeting and because of the certainty of America's direct sympathy in the successful carrying out of the Dawes plan.

The only disquieting note is sounded by the Daily Mail, under the heading "No More Surrenders," expressed skepticism as to the advisability of the allies pledging a loan to Germany. It asserts that the Germans, who are said to have hoards of money outside Germany, should be called upon to provide the funds for the loan.

HARVEST HAND

Mandan, N. D., Aug. 18.—T. O. Partridge of Seattle, Washington, met death Saturday night at Halliday Saturday night and went to the city hall to get a night's rest. He went into an unlocked cell. Early Sunday morning passers-by saw smoke and found that the bedding was afire. The smoke had suffocated him, and he was dead when found. He leaves a widow and daughter at Seattle. Partridge had been working in harvest fields.

NORTH DAKOTA WIPES OUT PAST TEN YEARS WITH ONE CROP, EVERYBODY IS HAPPY, FEDERAL LAND BANK HEAD FINDS

E. Q. Quamme, on Trip in State, Declares There is No Rust Damage West of the Missouri River—Sees Price Same or Better as Season Goes On

North Dakota's 1924 crops have almost wiped out the vicissitudes of the last ten years under disturbed world conditions, E. Q. Quamme, head of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, here on an inspection tour of the state, declared.

"The farmers are happy wherever you go," said Mr. Quamme. "There is that old feeling; they say again North Dakota is the place for me." North Dakota is almost back to normal times. I believe North Dakota has pretty near wiped out the last ten years and we are back to about 1912 again."

With all the talk of rust, frost and hail, Mr. Quamme pointed out that North Dakota is harvesting more than a million acres of crop a day, and it is fast being turned into money at high prices. Mr. Quamme traveled in the country west of the Missouri river for two days, after having observed crops between Fargo and Bismarck, and he left here Sunday for the northern part of the state.

"I saw several fields of oats west of the Missouri river that will go over 75 bushels an acre, wheat over 30 bushels and barley over 40 bushels," said the land bank head. "I saw absolutely no rust damage west of the Missouri river, where the harvest will be general next week, and, as far as I have gone in North Dakota, I have found no appreciable damage from rust."

TO ORGANIZE

Burlingame county towns will be organized against yeggs and bandits.

States Attorney Allen today said that as soon as he and Sheriff Hedstrom have recovered from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, they plan to visit several towns and urge organization of citizens and possibly hiring night watchmen, to protect the towns. When the accident happened, he said, they were planning to visit Arena for this purpose.

CEREMONY FOR
GOV. BRYAN TO BE HELD TODAY

Vice-Presidential Candidate to Be Officially Notified at Lincoln

10,000 ARE EXPECTED

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—(By the A. P.)—Governor Charles W. Bryan tonight will receive the highest honor of his political career in the city where he has spent more than half his life—the formal notification of his nomination for the vice-presidency by the Democratic party.

Lincoln will be gala attire for the occasion, banners, flags and hunting parties being displayed. Hundreds of delegates and visitors from nearby cities and towns made their way here by auto.

Additional hundreds, including many members of the official notification committee, arrived on early trains and taxed hotel facilities.

Governor Bryan early in the day went over his last-minute details of the program of the ceremony with members of the notification committee and later conferred with Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, regarding his campaign itinerary. While it has not been stated officially when his stump tour will start it is understood the Governor will not leave the state capital for any length of time before September 1.

Exercises, which start at 8 p. m. central time, will be held in the municipal stadium, capable of seating 40,000 people, and it is expected the stands will be filled.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 18.—Fred A. Pike, former chairman of the farmer-labor state central committee, was denied a new trial in his $10,000 suit against the Bank of North Dakota, by a decision filed by District Judge John W. Boerner.

Pike sued the bank for attorney fees, and a verdict was directed against him. The motion for a new trial, on which a decision was filed today, was argued July 7. Pike probably will appeal to the supreme court.

GARAGE SAFE BLOWN

Little Obtained in Looting at Hague—Gasoline Stations Robbed

(Special to the Tribune)
Linton, Aug. 18.—Robber bands plundered in Emmons county Sunday night, stealing $2,000 worth of silks and other goods in The Linton Leader store, blowing a safe at Hague, and committing other depredations. It was robbery on a wholesale scale.

The operations included:
Theft at the Linton Leader store, owned by Gottlieb Beechle, of all the bolts of silk, all ladies silk hose, all men's silk hose, about 12 suits of clothes, men's shoes.

Blowing of safe in garage at Hague, theft of about $15.
Entering another store at Hague, where suit was stolen.

Theft of gasoline at Standard Oil station at Linton and Hazelton.

Word had been broadcast but no trace of the robbers found at noon today, according to States Attorney Charles Coventry. Different bands are believed involved.

The Linton Leader store was entered by breaking a pane in a rear door and slipping the bolt which held the door fast. The loot evidently was placed in an automobile. No one heard the robbers and the robbery was not discovered until the store was opened this morning, according to Mr. Coventry.

No one has been found who heard the blowing of the safe in the Hague Motor Company's garage at Hague, according to Mr. Coventry. But about $15 was obtained. Automobile men there, who saw tracks made by tires, said one of the tires was a Goodyear cord and the other three cords of a different make.

Another store was entered in Hague, the states attorney said, but the safe was open, and the only thing said to have been stolen was a suit of clothes.

Robbers also stole gasoline at the oil distributing points at Hazelton and Linton, but how much was taken is not certain.

"This is not the first robbery of this kind," said Mr. Coventry. "Silks have been stolen at a dozen stores in this section in the last year or so. Pollock was cleaned up twice, and Hague, Wishek, Bradock and Hazelton stores have been entered in the last year or so. It seems to me that the state ought to be able to trace the disposition of these silks. They surely are sold some place by the robbers."

The meeting had been called, Mr. Dyer declared, with no particular program before it, but to consider the situation growing out of the supreme court's decision upholding Secretary of State Hall to the effect that petitions filed for a vote on a constitutional amendment providing a bond issue of $6,000,000 and other means to aid depositors of closed banks.

Fiery speeches resulted in the passage of a resolution to recall "the three most recently elected" judges of the supreme court, who are Justices Nusselt, Birdzell and Johnson. London, Aug. 18.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today sent letters to Premier Herriot and Premier Thoms of Belgium, urging that France and Belgium take every possible step to evacuate the Ruhr in less than the one year agreed upon at the conference.

"In the opinion of the British government," said the Prime Minister, continued occupation [may] prejudice and jeopardize the arrangements agreed to at the London conference.

London, Aug. 18.—The program for launching the Dawes reparation plan, initiated by the delegates to the international conference which closed here Saturday, now goes before the French parliament and the German Reichstag for action. Prospects are favorable for its adoption by both bodies, according to dispatches from both capitals.

The Nationalists in Germany, as was expected, are leading the opposition to the program but it is declared they will scarcely go so far as to adopt a parliamentary attitude which would result in defeat of the government, dissolution of the Reichstag and new elections, in which they could not hope to better their position.

Paris advises that the French parliament has practically decided to sustain the foreign policy of Premier Herriot for the time being. There is likely to be an extensive debate with pointed interpellations on the program drive against M. Herriot's part in the London agreement is expected.

It is hoped that the ratification will be forthcoming within the next fortnight so that representatives of all the interested powers can reassemble here on August 30 for formal signature to the agreement.

SLIGHT MACDONALD
London, Aug. 18.—The results of the London conference are criticized favorably by most of the London morning newspapers and the British press is full of restoring order in Europe. As the Westminster Gazette puts it "an ugly corner has been turned with perhaps sufficient impetus and a sufficient margin of safety to carry European countries safely through the years of readjustment."

With the exception of the Labor Party organ, The Herald, the papers withhold from Ramsay MacDonald personal credit for the successful outcome but it is generally acknowledged that his position and the support of his party has been greatly strengthened.

There is a tone of great optimism for the future expressed by the interest shown by the United States in the London meeting and because of the certainty of America's direct sympathy Dawes plan.

The only disquieting note is sounded by the Daily Mail which, under the heading "No More Surrenders" expressed skepticism as to the advisability of the allies pledging a loan to Germany. It asserts that the Germans, who are said to have hoards of money outside Germany, should be called upon to provide the funds for the loan.

Mandan, N. D., Aug. 18.—T. O. Partridge of Seattle, Washington, met death Saturday night at Halliday from suffocation. He came to Halliday Saturday night and went to the city hall to get a night's rest. He went into an unlocked cell. Early Sunday morning passers-by saw smoke and found that the bedding was afire. The smoke had suffocated him, and he was dead when found. He leaves a widow and daughter at Seattle. Partridge had been working in harvest fields.

NORTH DAKOTA WIPES OUT PAST TEN YEARS WITH ONE CROP, EVERYBODY IS HAPPY, FEDERAL LAND BANK HEAD FINDS

E. Q. Quamme, on Trip in State, Declares There Is No Rust Damage West of the Missouri River—Sees Price Same or Better as Season Goes On

North Dakota's 1924 crops have almost wiped out the vicissitudes of the last ten years under disturbed world conditions, E. Q. Quamme, head of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, here on an inspection tour of the state, declared.

"The farmers are happy wherever you go," said Mr. Quamme. "There is that old feeling they say again North Dakota is the place for and North Dakota is almost back to normal again. I believe North Dakota has pretty near wiped out the last ten years and we are back to about 1912 again."

With all the talk of rust, frost and hail, Mr. Quamme pointed out that North Dakota is harvesting more than a million acres of crop a day, and it is fast being turned into money at high prices. Mr. Quamme traveled in the country west of the Missouri river for two days, after having observed crops between Fargo and Bismarck, and he left here Sunday for the northern part of the state.

Big Yields Seen
"I saw several fields of oats west of the Missouri river that will go over 75 bushels an acre, wheat over 30 bushels and barley over 40 bushels," said the land bank head. "I saw absolutely no rust damage west of the Missouri river, where the harvest will be general next week, and, as far as I have seen in North Dakota, I have found no appreciable damage from rust."

TO ORGANIZE AGAINST YEGGS

Burleigh county towns will be organized against yeggmens and bandits.

States Attorney Allen today said that as soon as he and Sheriff Hedstrom have recovered from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, they plan to visit several towns and urge organization of citizens and possibly hiring night watchmen, to protect the towns. When the accident happened, he said, they were planning to visit Arena for this purpose.

CEREMONY FOR GOV. BRYAN TO BE HELD TODAY

Vice-Presidential Candidate to Be Officially Notified at Lincoln

10,000 ARE EXPECTED

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—(By the A. P.)—Governor Charles W. Bryan tonight will receive the highest honor of his political career in the city where he spent more than half his life—the formal notification of his nomination for the vice-presidency by the Democratic party.

Lincoln was in gala attire for the occasion, banners, flags and bunting being displayed. Hundreds of delegates and visitors from nearby cities and towns made their way here by auto.

Additional hundreds, including many members of the official notification committee, arrived on early trains and taxed hotel facilities.

Governor Bryan early in the day went over his last-minute details of the program of the ceremony with members of the notification committee and later conferred with Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, regarding his campaign itinerary. While it has not been stated officially when his stamping tour will start it is understood the Governor will not leave the state capital for any length of time before September 1.

Exercises, which start at 8 p. m. central time, will be held in the University of Nebraska stadium, capable of seating 40,000 people, and it is expected the stands will be filled.

BOY KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Father Badly Injured on Farm Near Mandan

Mandan, N. D., Aug. 18.—George Soucy, 13 years old, was killed and his father, Joseph Soucy was perhaps fatally injured when a team hitched to a header-box wagon, became frightened and ran away on their farm home south of Mandan this morning.

The boy was thrown from the wagon and instantly killed and the father was badly injured when he attempted to stop the team.

PIKE LOSES TRIAL DEMAND

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 18.—Fred A. Pike, former chairman of the farmer-labor state central committee, was denied a new trial in his $10,000 suit against the Bank of North Dakota, by a decision filed by District Judge John W. Boerner.

Pike sued the bank for attorney fees, and a verdict was directed against him. The motion for a new trial, on which a decision was filed today, was argued July 7. Pike probably will appeal to the supreme court.

LINTON STORE RAIDED, $2,000 VALUE OF LOOT

All Bolts of Silk and Silk Hose Are Taken by the Bandits There

GARAGE SAFE BLOWN

Little Obtained in Looting at Hague—Gasoline Stations Robbed

(Special to the Tribune)
Linton, Aug. 18.—Robber bands plundered in Emmons county Sunday night, stealing $2,000 worth of silks and other goods in The Linton Leader store, blowing a safe at Hague, and committing other depredations. It was robbery on a wholesale scale.

The operations included: Theft at the Linton Leader store, owned by Gottlieb Bechtel, of all the bolts of silk, all ladies silk hose, all men's silk hose, about 12 suits of clothes, many overcoats, all high-priced men's shoes.

Blowing of safe in garage at Hague, where suit was stolen. Theft of gasoline at Standard Oil stations at Linton and Hazelton.

Word had been broadcast but no trace of the robbers found at noon today, according to States Attorney Charles Coventry. Different bands are believed involved.

The Linton Leader store was entered by breaking a panel in a rear door and slipping the bolt which held the door fast. The loot evidently was placed in an automobile. No one heard the robbers and the robbery was not discovered until the store was opened this morning, according to Mr. Coventry.

No one has been found who heard the blowing of the safe in the Hague Motor Company's garage at Hague, according to Mr. Coventry. But about $15 was obtained. Automobiles have been stolen at a tracks made by tires, said one of the tires was a Goodyear cord and the other three cords of a different make.

Another store was entered in Hague, the states attorney said, but the safe was open, and the only thing said to have been stolen was a suit of clothes.

Robbers also stole gasoline at the oil distributing points at Hazelton and Linton, but how much was taken is not certain.

This is not the first robbery of this kind, said Mr. Coventry. "Silks have been stolen at a dozen stores in this section in the last year or so. Pollock was cleaned up twice, and Hague, Wishek, Braddock and Hazelton stores have been entered in the last year or so. It seems to me that the state ought to be tracing the disposition of these silks. They surely are sold some place by the robbers."

COOLIDGE IS CHEERED OVER PARLEY RESULT

President, on Vermont Farm, Sees London Conference Big Forward Step

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 18.—(By the A. P.)—President Coolidge was cheerfully cheered today over the successful conclusion of the international conference in London called to put in effect the Dawes reparation plan. He has shown considerable interest in the negotiations in which this country was represented by Ambassador Kellogg and Col. James A. Logan and he has said he believes the accomplishments of the conference the greatest thing since the signing of the Armistice with the possible exception of the Washington armament conference. He sent a message to Mr. Kellogg, expressing satisfaction over the results.

NEW OPINION IS GAINED OF ALL NORTHWEST

Financial Writer, in Trip Through Region, Finds to Find Bankruptcy

TALKS OF NO. DAKOTA

When Glen L. LaMoore, financial writer, returned from his trip through the Northwest, he found that the financial situation in that region was not as bright as it had appeared. He found that the financial situation in that region was not as bright as it had appeared. He found that the financial situation in that region was not as bright as it had appeared.

A former financial editor of a well-known publication, LaMoore recently wrote for publication in a magazine of national circulation a series of articles about the financial situation in the Northwest. This statement of facts is not challenged by many authorities, but the fact that he told the worst of the land made little note of the compensating good has been an excuse.

LaMoore, Aug. 16.—An article about LaMoore and the community surrounding it will appear in a September issue of The Country Gentleman. A staff writer for the magazine spent some time in the region obtaining material for the article.

With regard to North Dakota he said:

Bright in North Dakota
"The state of North Dakota has been pictured as being the black spot on the agricultural map, yet conditions and prospects there are particularly bright. There was practically no land inflation in North Dakota. Farm abandonment was almost entirely by incompetent farmers and bank failures were affected very largely by incompetent farmers. North Dakota is inclined to feel that her land was a severe test, but that it will prove a blessing in the end."

In a journey through this territory I found more newspapers and more farmers in favor of government subsidies to farmers than I found in any of the same states. I found that the government subsidy was a very large factor in the financial situation of the Northwest.

ROBBER GETS 5-YEAR TERM

Lincoln, N. D., Aug. 16.—Rich and Hayes, this "Silent," pleading guilty before District Judge J. A. Coffey to carrying away a small safe from a Montpelier poolroom and also to robbing the station there and stealing a suit of clothes and $5 in cash, was given four years in the state penitentiary on each of two charges of third degree robbery. The judge announced Hayes was arrested at Carleton on the charge of carrying a gun, and was then brought here as a suspect in the Montpelier case.

MOTORIST HELD UP IN N. DAKOTA

Fergus Falls, Minn., Aug. 16.—William Barbeau of this city reports that while motoring near Bowman, N. D., he was stopped by a man who appeared to be having car trouble. The stranger showed a gun into his face and robbed him of all of his money, $18. He then slashed his right front tire to delay him in giving the alarm and drove westward.

JOSEPH MILLS IS RECOVERING

Dickinson, Aug. 16.—Excavation for the basement of the new Colonial bus home on East Avenue West, just north of the Elks' building and E. H. Baird residence began Tuesday under the supervision of Martin Schiller, contractor. It is expected that the job will be completed in time so that work on the general construction of the first unit may begin immediately after bids, called for Tuesday, August 26, have been opened and the contract awarded.

WRITE OF LAMORE

SKELETON IS FOUND ON FARM

Brantford, N. D., Aug. 16.—The mystery of the disappearance from a threshing rig operating near here three years ago of a threshing employee recalled only as "Dick" or "Bill" by local residents, is believed to have been cleared by the finding of a skeleton on top of an old and sunken strawstack at the edge of town. James A. Manly, state's attorney of Tully county, this week made inquiries which appear to definitely establish that the skeleton is that of the man who disappeared. According to meager bits of information picked up by Mr. Manly, the man, aged about 60, was employed on a threshing rig. It is recalled that he was of peculiar habit and of a reclusive nature. He failed to appear for breakfast one morning and could not be found. It was conjectured that he had been taken ill or that some old malady had become aggravated.

Examination indicated that the skeleton probably had been exposed to the weather for about three years. A pocketbook containing about $1.75 in silver, some rolled paper slips that may have been bills, and a cheap watch were found beside the skeleton.

COLUMBUS HOME WORK STARTED

Hazleton, Aug. 16.—Joseph Mills, who was shot by Geo. Corbin some months ago, was in Hazleton visiting friends and having his wounds dressed by a local physician. Mr. Mills still makes frequent trips to the hospital at Bismarck for treatment, and the doctors say it will take fully a year before he will be entirely recovered.

British Rulers Meet Dominion Legislators

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—Higher port charges in England than those on the continent are handicapping trade severely, it was declared at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. One speaker said that British goods were severely handicapped in overseas markets by the difference between the freight rates at British and continental ports.

F. Russell Roberts, secretary of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association, said there was a difference of about three shillings a ton in port and handling charges between Liverpool and Hamburg, Antwerp, Amsterdam and Rotterdam. In the continental ports men worked longer hours at less pay.

Unless workmen could be brought to see that the cost of services rendered and goods manufactured must be brought within the reach of the purchaser, trade was bound to leave the country, he declared.

Of all the earthquakes on record the most disastrous occurred in 1556, in China, when 830,000 people

OFFICERS OF BANK HELD

Arrested Following Closing of Minnesota Bank

Fargo, Aug. 16.—W. F. Lee, president, W. Atkinson, vice-president, and D. F. Gunness, director of the closed Citizens State Bank at Barnesville, were arrested yesterday and arraigned before Justice H. C. Ryan in Moorhead charged with receiving deposits in an insolvent bank. Justice Ryan fixed their bail at $2,000 and bonds are now being arranged by all three.

A fourth warrant was issued by Justice Ryan yesterday on the same charge, this being against J. S. Ueland of Fergus Falls, former president of the closed bank. He was notified of the warrant and is expected to arrive in Moorhead today and arrange bail.

The arrest followed an investigation of the bank's affairs and a conference between a delegation of Barnesville citizens and County Attorney W. George Hammett in Moorhead Thursday.

The bank closed about six weeks ago with deposits of about $280,000. It was capitalized at $26,000.

Gas Is Expensive At 7,000 Feet

Ligonier, Pa., Aug. 16.—Drilling nearly a mile and a half through the earth's crust into the heated sub-strata, gas men have made unsuccessful efforts to strike wells with which to replenish the steadily dwindling supply of gas in this district. Drilling crews of the People's Natural Gas Company of Pittsburgh have penetrated nearly 7,000 feet without result.

The Ligonier operation is the deepest hole in the world that has been drilled for gas. The work has been in progress four years. The 7,000-foot mark was passed on the fourth birthday of the operation.

DEVILS LAKE CLAIMS VICTIM

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 16.—The body of a water near here which was named Devils Lake by superstitious Indians, lived up to its legends the fore part of this week when it claimed another victim, Peder Johnsen, who walked into the mythical shadowed waters of this Indian named lake and was drowned. The body was discovered by W. H. Brown of Quakis, Minnesota, a tourist, who happened to be strolling along the shore and noticed the body lying in shallow water where it had been several hours.

On the shore, where the aged man had undoubtedly placed them before committing suicide, lay his treasured pipe and tobacco pouch.

EIGHT HOUR LAW HELD TO APPLY TO RAILROADS

The North Dakota eight hour law for women applies to women in clerical positions on railroads engaged in interstate commerce, as well as other businesses in the state, declares an opinion issued from the Attorney-General's office by Philip Elliott, assistant, in response to an inquiry from Jamestown.

No conflict is found by him between the North Dakota law and the federal hours of service law applying to railroads.

The opinion overrules one issued by W. A. Anderson, assistant attorney-general under William L. Burke, to the effect that the North Dakota law would not apply to transportation companies engaged in interstate commerce.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

SPEAKING OF DEDUCTIONS

T. R. Atkinson in a report to the city commission upon engineering expense reports the total of water works contracts to date as $359,528.91. On this he reports as having coming to him five per cent or a total of $17,976.45. Purchase price of the old plant was $265,000. Three per cent on this gives us the $7,950 gratuity. The total of the commissions is $25,926.45. Mr. Atkinson in his report states that the total engineering expense covering these items at three and five per cent amounts to a grand total of $25,386.24. There is a difference of $540.21 not accounted for in the city's favor.

Through his official press agent, the public is informed that $2,000 of the $4,000 to be paid for the plans and specifications of the water plant is to be deducted. It might be interesting for the taxpayers to know if the $540.21, the difference between five and three per cent upon the contracts and purchase price and what Mr. Atkinson's bill calls for, is part of the $2,000 to be deducted.

The Atkinson commission score to date then reads something like this:
Fee on plans $ 2,000.00
Three per cent gratuity 7,950.00
Five per cent on contracts 17,976.45

Grand Total $27,926.45

Less $540.21 not accounted for brings
Net Commission and Gratuity to $27,486.24
It is hard to get the exact facts upon city business. Appeals made by The Tribune to A. P. Lenhart, president of the city commission, to issue through its columns a complete statement of water plant costs and commissions to Atkinson have been coldly denied.

It is suggested that the city auditor Myron Atkinson, son of T. R. Atkinson and A. J. Arnot, city treasurer, prepare a detailed statement showing all items carrying a five per cent commission, what will carry a special three per cent commission, uncompleted contracts upon which five per cent commission is still to be paid and whether or not the taxpayers will be forced to pay Mr. Atkinson five per cent upon additional cost of the intake at the river which is now on a cost plus basis as far as work additional to original contract is concerned, due to alterations made in the original plans.

It might be edifying to know also whether Mr. Atkinson receives a commission on the tons of excess iron pipe piled in the boulevard on Avenue C and not utilized.

In touching on deductions claimed to have been made but not shown in Mr. Atkinson's statement as presented to Commissioner Thompson, it might be well to state also whether any deduction was made on the thirty-six inch sanitary sewer constructed to empty into the old eighteen inch sewer.

This error in building a thirty-six inch sewer to empty into the eighteen inch sewer necessitated an additional outlay of $11,000 of the taxpayers money across the bottom lands. Was Mr. Atkinson paid five per cent or $550 on this error? Will there be any deductions for the confusion over the intake plans?

When discussing deductions and in order to be fair to all sides, A. P. Lenhart should issue a complete statement of disbursements on contracts covering the water works system and the sanitary sewer.

The Tribune is merely interested in giving the taxpayers the facts of how their dollars are being spent. If T. R. Atkinson proposed to deduct $2,000 of the proposed $4,000 fee for the plans and specifications, it should have shown up in the statement of August 5, all the press or the taxpayers have to go by.

Before the next budget is made up the city commission as is required by law should publish a complete financial statement of the city's affairs sworn to by the City Treasurer. It should not be too long delayed. It should not be a mere perfunctory summary, but a comprehensive statement covering receipts and disbursements and especially those paid in commissions and for extraordinary purchases or payments upon contracts.

This is the public business and the people are entitled to know. Requests made by The Tribune for a complete statement have not been complied with. If Mr. Lenhart is adverse to giving The Tribune this information, he can publish it in the county's official paper.

By all means let us have some definite statement of where the money is going and how much more is to be spent on contracts and commissions upon the water plant.

Some heavy taxes are ahead and the citizens of Bismarck are entitled to know what they are facing.

No graft is charged to anyone, merely lax business management in the handling of the city's affairs and even more laxity in telling the people about their own business.

EYES

Two million American school children are backward in their studies because of defective eyesight, claims an organization with a name as long as the number of German marks in circulation.

Proper spectacles, furnished free, would correct this defect. Wisely cities are realizing that brains cannot be trained to function at their best unless expert care is devoted to pupils' eyes, teeth, diet and other physical factors.

SUNDAY

He has preached 22,000 sermons—Canon Hay Aitken, England's greatest revivalist. Aged, but in good health, so he may pass John Wesley's record of 27,000 sermons.

Vicar Aitken's observation is that church-going habits have been broken down by the invention of the bicycle and auto. He overlooks golf. "Every new benefit which science has conferred upon us has been used to take men away from the churches."

An exception is radio, which has created an invisible church audience numbering into the millions.

Editorial Review

SUPER-POWER DEVELOPMENT

Muscle Shoals, according to Carl D. Thompson at the Epworth Assembly, is merely one link in a chain. This is a fact which the country is gradually grasping. One needs to beware lest at this point his imagination run away with him, but there isn't much doubt that revolutionary "super-power" development is in near prospect for this country.

By "super-power" is meant the developing and linking together into a balanced system, the country's sources of mechanical power. This means development and inter-linking of water powers and the burning of coal at the mine and the transmission of its energies by electric cable instead of freight car. Developing water power involves flood control and reclamation of arid lands. Out of it all flows to the point, where needed, the electric current which is to turn the wheels of the future. The little individual power plant is to go. For our factory wheels as well as our dining room lights, we are to tap a common stream of electric power.

The country's ablest engineers, including Herbert Hoover, entertain this dream as something already under fulfillment. The centralization of electric power into larger and larger mills is going on at a rapid rate. We see this in progress in Nebraska as well as elsewhere. And along with and beyond it lies what may well be a paramount political issue within another four or eight years. We have thought of railroads as fearful in their power over us all for weal or woe. The super-power of tomorrow will control the railroads with the rest. How is the new Frankenstein, having in its keeping our very economic breath of life to be controlled? Subject here for a political struggle of first magnitude.—Lincoln Journal.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Two men are in the city jail charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

One hundred thousand people are in this community wondering when the highways of the country will be even as safe as the battlefields of France. America lost 49,000 killed in France in eighteen months. In the last six months in this country 96,000 persons were slain by automobiles. Twenty-five thousand of those were children.

But, this matter of drunken drivers is the most serious menace to the public safety now. It is a problem that the police and the courts can settle.

It is a problem that the public will demand that the police and the courts settle. With the number of drunken drivers increasing, even the thought of every one of them does not kill some one, it appears that it is time for drastic penalties to be meted out to the offenders.

A man who takes a gun and goes out to commit murder is safer than a drunken fool at the steering wheel of an automobile.

The former is the enemy of women and children, and is as likely to mow down a dozen with one turn of the wheel as he is to run his car into the Ohio river.—Evansville Journal.

MANDAN NEWS

MEN TRANSFERRED

Seven men have already been transferred to the mechanical department of the Northern Pacific shops here, all of them coming from Dickinson where they have been in the employ of the railroad, the shops being cut down to a minimum force. About the same number of men have been transferred to Glendive.

Running of the passenger locomotives for the two hundred mile jumps, the reason for the closing of the Dickinson shops, began definitely this week on the Yellowstone division. Still more men are to be added to the various departments of the Mandan round house. No increases have been announced in the car repair or supply departments of the shops.

Promotions for some of the heads of the round house departments are expected in the Dakota, Yellowstone and Montana divisions and numerous changes are now pending.

TO TEACH IN PANAMA

Three Mandan girls, Miss Wilfred Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson, and the Misses Louise and Antonio Gruenfelder, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Gruenfelder, will teach during the next year in the Panama canal zone. They will sail from New York on September 22nd and will be assigned their schools on reaching Panama.

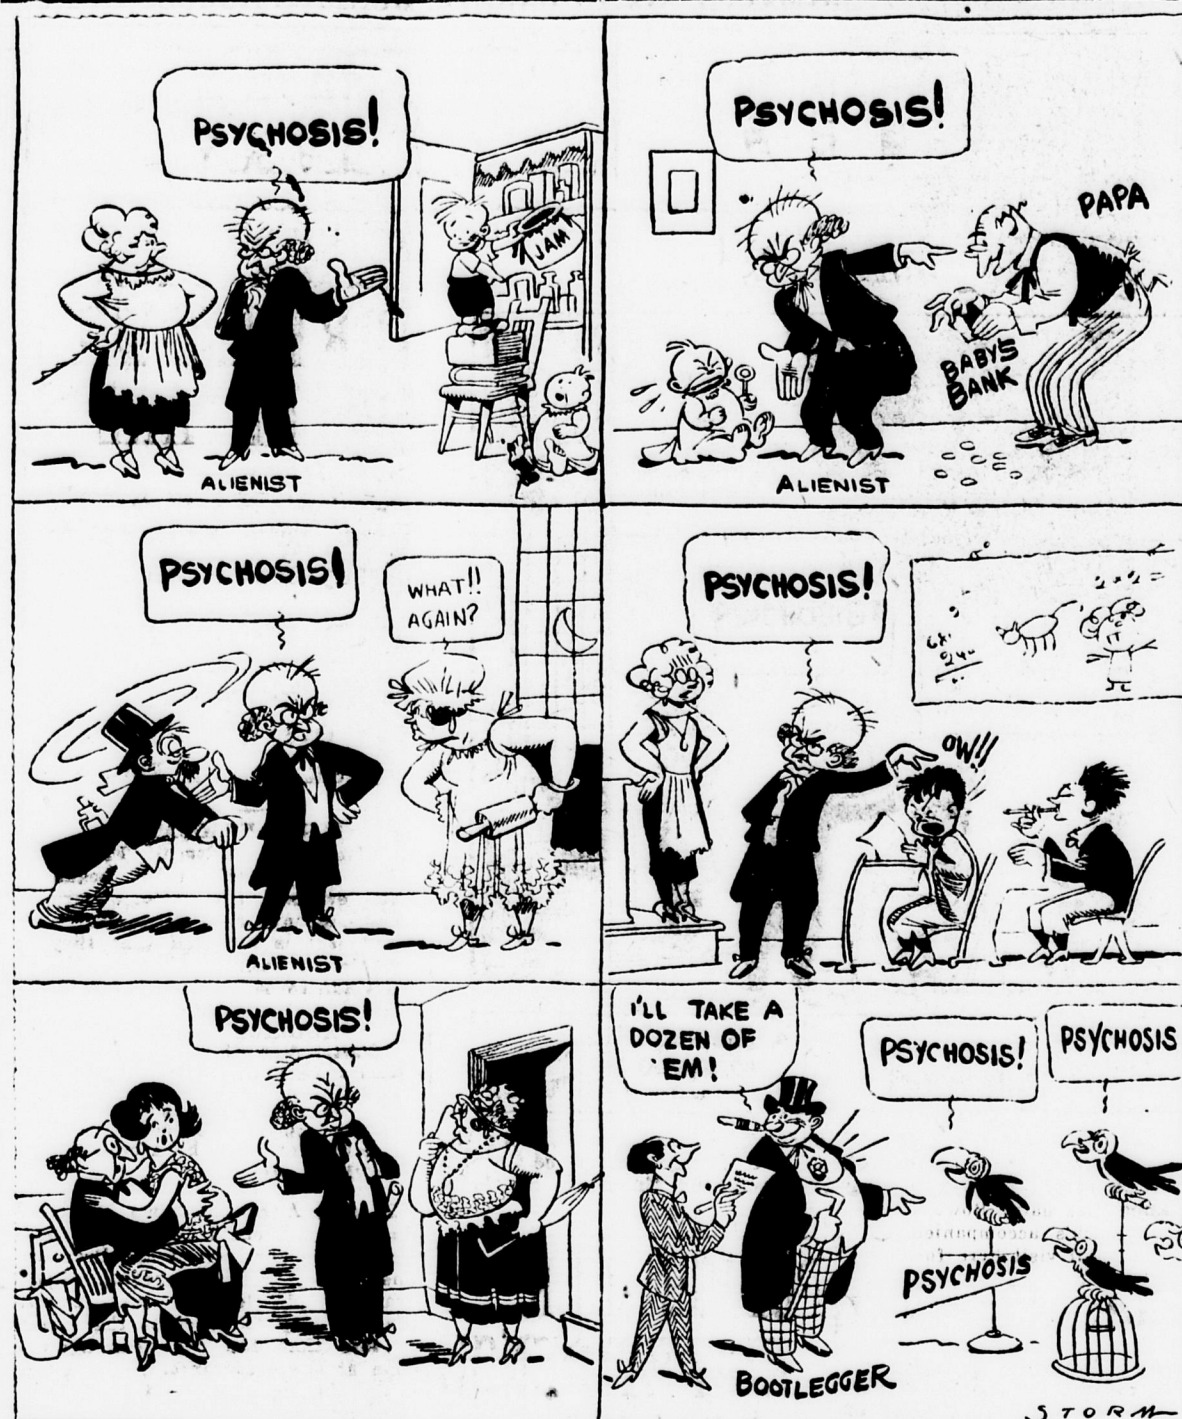

Miss Simpson plans to leave sometime during the next week for Crosby, Minn., where she formerly taught, to spend several days with friends, leaving there for Omaha, Neb., to visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Lough. She will also visit in New York with friends before sailing. The Misses Gruenfelder plan to visit in New York City and with brother, Francis Gruenfelder at West Point, before leaving for Panama.

MARTIN-BRINSMADE

A quiet but very pretty wedding, and probably a surprise to many friends in the city, took place Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Means, when Miss Ellen Martin became the bride of J. C. Brinsmade, Jr.

Only the immediate members of the bride's family, Mr. and Mrs. Means and Thomas Killand, were present at the ceremony which was performed by Rev. F. H. Davenport of Christ Episcopal church. The bride was charming in a gown of peach colored printed chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

Miss Martin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Martin, who reside southwest of the city. She is a graduate of the Mandan High School and the State Teachers College at Valley. She taught in the local schools for two years.

"Hello," said Tommy when he saw them. "Where are you going?" "No place," said Weeny. "We're not going. We're coming. We've come to visit you."

"Hooray!" cried Tommy Tiger. "Leave your satchel on the porch and come on over to the playground with me. I was just starting."

"Sure," said Weeny. "We'll come right away. Slide down off my back, Nick, will you, and set my satchel on Tommy's front porch."

Soon everybody was ready and off they all started for the playground where Tommy Tiger and his friends had such a good time.

There were swings and see-saws and sand-pits and everything you could think of to make the jungle children happy.

"Let's try the see-saw first," said Tommy Tiger. "Nancy and Nick can take a turn and then Weeny and I can take a turn. Then we can go turn about until we get tired." So the Twins took their turn on the see-saw, and then it was time for Weeny and Tommy to get on.

Tommy got on his end of the board and Weeny was just going to sit down on his end of the board, when his feet slipped and down he went on it—smack! like a ton of coal.

And Tommy Tiger flew up over the tree-tops like a stone out of a slingshot and disappeared from view altogether—like a shooting-star, as Nick said afterwards.

"Oh, dear! Dearie me!" exclaimed Weeny. "Now look what I went and did. We'll have to find Tommy and bring him back. If he's lost his mama and papa will bite my head off."

So Nancy and Nick and Weeny went to look for Tommy Tiger, and at last they found him sticking away up in a palm tree about a hundred feet high.

If he hadn't been a circus tiger and used to jumping he never, never would have gotten down. But he did at last.

And he was so good natured that he only laughed about it. "That was the best ride I ever had," he said. "Let's go back to the playground and have some more fun."

So away they went.

FIRE DESTROYS BATHING TENT

WELL, WIFE, YOU HAVE HAD YOUR HAIR BOBBED AND IT WAS A GREAT SHOCK TO ME. NOW, THEN, HOW DO YOU LIKE MY LITTLE INNOVATION?

TWO THOUSAND CHANCES

By Albert Apple

There are 2000 different lines of work that a boy or girl can follow when they strike out into the world for themselves. This figure is unearthed by Doris Maddow, the vocational guidance expert. Meaning, that she specializes at helping young people select the work they are best fitted for.

Two thousand different lines of work mean 2000 different kinds of opportunity. For there is opportunity in every field, always leaders and plenty of room for more.

Success comes to relatively few. It depends on natural ability, concentration and luck or the law of chance.

Do you ever stop to think how much easier it is for a man to select an occupation with great possibilities, than it used to be?

Many now living can recall when a young fellow's choice of vocations was limited. He might become a farmer, a tradesman, lawyer, doctor, dentist, railroad man, keeper of a lively stable, carpenter, mason, blacksmith, machinist, Jack-of-all-trades.

That didn't complete the list. But his selection was not nearly as varied as today. Consider, for instance, the new forms of work created for millions of people by the auto—the various stages of manufacturing, selling, repairing and the great side-fields of gasoline and accessories.

Radio has created many entirely new vocations. So have the movies. So have airplanes, industrial chemistry and other new activities.

Choose your career as carefully as you would choose a life mate. Miss Maddow advises. She speaks words of wisdom. One can get rid of an uncongenial husband or wife easier than to change lines of work after years of training in one line have bred habit.

With 2000 different ways of making a living to choose from, there is no excuse for anyone not finding work he loves.

Nature distributes our inclinations shrewdly. There are just enough "born mechanics" or "born doctors" to meet needs, and with every activity. Many get into the wrong line—are misfits—and discontented and half-hearted, fail.

Instinct will guide most of us to the right work.

Much failure is directly due to well-meaning but misguided parents who sway the child from his natural inclination and try to make, for instance, a lawyer out of a born mechanic or a mechanic out of a born lawyer.

He has to live with his job. Let him select it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Romance is not dead.

A spinster of 45, retiring in the presence of men, lives in a picturesque abode in Westchester county, a short car ride from the bustle of New York.

She has the idealistic, romantic view of life of an adolescent girl.

For years, I am told, she has clung to the outer fringes of life. The nearest she has come to entering the abounding places of the sophisticated life she sees from a distance, is the time she sold some hand-beaded bags to a shopkeeper in Greenwich Village.

Independently wealthy, this naive maiden of middle age is not without personal charm.

Beside her home, on a rolling lawn, she has had erected a tower, soaring many feet above the top of her house. Much of her time is spent here. From its glass-encased cupola the gay light of giddy Broadway are visible at night.

Men with waxed mustaches, wearing perfect-fitting riding uniforms, hasten past on spirited horses. They are the gallants of today.

There is little doubt but that she lives, in thought at least, in the medieval days of knights and fairy princes, hoping that one of the charmers who ride past her castle, will awaken her from romantic dreamings.

It is in direct contrast to the aggressive coquetry of today's maidens.

Poverty and affliction usually deserve sympathy—but not always.

There have been many exposures of public beggars, who collected alms on prominent corners by day, and spent their time in secluded, luxurious haunts after sundown.

However, yesterday I paused to talk with an aged, blind beggar. She was accompanied by her grandson and was standing before the entrance of an uptown hotel.

Playing a ukelele, she was attempting in a creaking voice to mingle age-old lyrics with the flapper's delight. Neither her voice nor her ukelele carried above the din of heavy traffic.

She was worthy of aid, I am positive. After talking to her for five minutes, an unusual lump came in my throat. She was an optimist.

After I left her I sent my mother out in Lafayette, Ind. a present.

Karl Whitney stopped, abashed. "I beg your pardon," he said. "I did not think I was interrupting anything private."

Mother turned to him. "Karl," she said, "I want to ask you some questions."

"Don't tell him, mother, don't tell him. I did it because I love him. I did it because I love him. Don't tell him. He will always hate me, if he knows."

Poor Karl, Ruth, stood there looking very uncomfortable. Mother raised Alice to her feet, but looked at her in horror. It seemed to her that her mother was looking at her daughter as though she were a total stranger.

Finally she found words: "You'll excuse me for a little while, Karl," she said. "Then I will clear this matter entirely up to your satisfaction as well as my own."

"Leslie, I am telegraphing for your husband to bring the baby over himself. I think it's important that he should be here. I know your father will want to see him as soon as he's able to see any one."

As soon as mother and Alice had left the room, Karl turned to me and said: "What does this mean, Leslie? What is the matter with Alice? She hasn't been herself for quite a while. In fact, I came over today to find out what was wrong with her."

"I'm going to ask you a very pertinent question, Karl? Are you very fond of Alice?"

Karl hesitated, turning red, then white.

"Yes, I think I am as fond of her as I will ever be of any woman. I suppose, Leslie, I am what they call a one-woman man?"

"Karl, may I give those pearls you gave me back to Alice for a wedding present?"

"What is the matter? Is all this fuss being made about that foolish string of pearls again. Alice doesn't want those pearls."

"Yes she does, Karl—so much so that she is perfectly willing to break up my home to get them."

"Leslie, I can't hear this, even from you. You must be mad."

The nurse came in at this moment, saying that my father wanted me. I spent the whole afternoon with him, and so here the matter stands. Mother has sent for Jack, Alice hasn't left her room all day today, and Karl has vanished. Just what the next day or two will bring forth I haven't the slightest idea.

Lovingly, LESLIE.

FABLES ON HEALTH

SWIMMING HEALTHFUL

Vacation days at an end, Mr. Jones was inclined to slip back into his careless routine of living.

"Doing any swimming?" the physical director asked him when they met one day.

"Not since my vacation," answered Mr. Jones.

"That's what they all say. They all go away for two weeks or a month; start getting their physical selves built up and then come home feeling pretty peppy; they go at top speed on the little energy newly acquired or slide back in their chairs and take on a large-sized bay window."

"You fellows have an idea that you can get through the year on the two weeks or a month that you use in getting back to nature.

"The least you can do is keep up one form of exercise. For chest, shoulder and body development generally there's nothing like a good course in swimming. It's fine for the wind of gents like yourself; gets you in the habit of breathing more regularly and forces deep breathing."

There's a good tank at your gymnasium, and the reaction from the plunge is enough to help you tone up by itself.

"Go through a good course of exercises and then jump in the tank. Or get down to the lake or seashore on Sunday, if you can. And if there's no place to swim, take a good shower and rubdown after your exercise."

CHENILLE CREPE

Materials for the coming season are so decorative and so rich looking that they need only to be handled with skill to make the most stunning gowns. This one is of chenille crepe with a shirred panel of satin the same color, edged with fur for relief. The long smock blouse effect is bordered with satin and the under tunic is of the same. This makes an exceptionally attractive outfit for afternoon tea or dinner and yet it may be worn at any hour of the day and not be inappropriate.

KIWANIANS HEAR STORY OF CHISHOLM

Local Members Who Were Not at District Conference Told What They Missed

Members of the Kiwanis club, who missed the district convention at Chisholm, Minnesota, heard from some of those who did attend, just what they missed, at the weekly luncheon of the club today.
Judge Birdzell, club president, briefly talked on the convention, and reports were given by Spencer Boise, of the entertainment features; Dr. J. O. Aronson of the official proceedings and Attorney-General George Shafer on the program.
Others from the local club in attendance included Dr. A. M. Brandt, who was accompanied by Mr. Brandt, and Miss Dorothy Birdzell, accompanying her father.
The local Kiwanians were told that the three Iron Range cities of Chisholm, Hibbing and Virginia joined in entertaining the conference, which was unusually large. There were 1,208 registered, of which 752 were Kiwanians and the remainder Kiwanis-Quents. The Bismarck Kiwanians reported the convention was an inspiring affair, with entertainment features in the summer resort country remarkably fine. The Kiwanians were from Minnesota, North and South Dakota.
Dr. W. E. Cole today gave a talk congratulating Spencer Boise on the acquisition of a boy in his family, and he responded with a box of cigars.

KIWANIANS HEAR STORY OF CHISHOLM

Local Members Who Were Not at District Conference Told What They Missed

Members of the Kiwanis club, who missed the district convention at Chisholm, Minnesota, heard from some of those who did attend, just what they missed, at the weekly luncheon of the club today.

Judge Birdzell, club president, briefly talked on the convention, and reports were given by Spencer Boise, of the entertainment features; Dr. J. O. Aronson of the official proceedings and Attorney-General George Shafer on the program. Others from the local club in attendance included Dr. A. M. Brandt, and reports were given by Mrs. Brandt, and Miss Dorothy Birdzell, accompanying her father.

The local Kiwanians were told that the three Iron Range cities of Chisholm, Hibbing and Virginia joined in entertaining the conference, which was unusually large. There were 1,208 registered, of which 752 were Kiwanians and the remainder Kiwanis-Queens. The Bismarck Kiwanians reported the convention was an inspiring affair, with entertainment features in the summer resort country remarkably fine. The Kiwanians were from Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

Dr. W. E. Cole today gave a talk congratulating Spencer Boise on the acquisition of a boy in his family, and he responded with a box of cigars.

Anniversary of Originator of Souvenir Post Card

Gottingen, Germany, Aug. 18.—Heinrich Lange, who has just celebrated his 50th anniversary as proprietor of a stationery and art store in this city, has achieved more than local fame by the fact that he was the first German to bring out a view postal card.

Shortly after taking over the business, Lange had the designs for the first series of souvenir cards drawn by a Gottingen architect, Hildebrand.

Since then the sending of souvenir postal cards has become so popular in Germany that it is a common practice for the German tourist to order post cards at the same time that he orders his beer and his meal. THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

SPEAKING OF DEDUCTIONS
T. R. Atkinson in a report to the city commission upon engineering expense reports the total of water works contracts to date as $359,528.91. On this he reports as having coming to him five per cent or a total of $17,976.45. Purchase price of the old plant was $265,000. Three per cent on this gives us the $7,950 gratuity. The total of the commissions is $25,926.45. Mr. Atkinson in his report states that the total engineering expense covering these items at three and five per cent amounts to a grand total of $25,386.24. There is a difference of $540.21 not accounted for in the city's favor.

Through his official press agent, the public is informed that $2,000 of the $4,000 to be paid for the plans and specifications of the water plant is to be deducted. It might be interesting for the taxpayers to know if the $540.21, the difference between five and three per cent upon the contracts and purchase price and what Mr. Atkinson's bill calls for, is part of the $2,000 to be deducted.

The Atkinson commission score to date then reads something like this:
Fee on plans.....$ 2,000.00
Three per cent gratuity..... 7,950.00
Five per cent on contracts..... 17,976.45

It is hard to get the exact facts upon city business. Appeals made by The Tribune to A. P. Lenhart, president of the city commission, to issue through its columns a complete statement of water plant costs and commissions to Atkinson have been coldly denied.

It is suggested that the city auditor Myron Atkinson, son of T. R. Atkinson and A. J. Arnot, city treasurer, prepare a detailed statement showing all items carrying a five per cent commission, what will carry a special three per cent commission, uncompleted contracts upon which five per cent commission is still to be paid and whether or not the taxpayers will be forced to pay Mr. Atkinson five per cent upon additional cost of the intake at the river which is now on a cost plus basis as far as work additional to original contract is concerned, due to alterations made in the original plans.

It might be edifying to know also whether Mr. Atkinson receives a commission on the tons of excess iron pipe piled in the boulevard on Avenue C and not utilized.

In touching on deductions claimed to have been made but not shown in Mr. Atkinson's statement as presented to Commissioner Thompson, it might be well to state also whether any deduction was made on the thirty-six inch sanitary sewer constructed to empty into the old eighteen inch sewer.

This error in building a thirty-six inch sewer to empty into the eighteen inch sewer necessitated an additional outlay of $11,000 of the taxpayers money across the bottom lands. Was Mr. Atkinson paid five per cent or $550 on this error? Will there be any deductions for the confusion over the intake plans?

When discussing deductions and in order to be fair to all sides, A. P. Lenhart should issue a complete statement of disbursements on contracts covering the water works system and the sanitary sewer.

The Tribune is merely interested in giving the taxpayers the facts of how their dollars are being spent. If T. R. Atkinson proposed to deduct $2,000 of the proposed $4,000 fee for the plans and specifications, it should have shown up in the statement of August 5, all the press or the taxpayers have to go by.

Before the next budget is made up the city commission as is required by law should publish a complete financial statement of the city's affairs sworn to by the City Treasurer. It should not be too long delayed. It should not be a mere perfunctory summary, but a comprehensive statement covering receipts and disbursements and especially those paid in commissions and for extraordinary purchases or payments upon contracts.

This is the public business and the people are entitled to know. Requests made by The Tribune for a complete statement have not been complied with. If Mr. Lenhart is adverse to giving The Tribune this information, he can publish it in the county's official paper.

By all means let us have some definite statement of where the money is going and how much more is to be spent on contracts and commissions upon the water plant.

Some heavy taxes are ahead and the citizens of Bismarck are entitled to know what they are facing.

No graft is charged to anyone, merely lax business management in the handling of the city's affairs and even more laxity in telling the people about their own business.

EYES
Two million American school children are backward in their studies because of defective eyesight, claims an organization with a name as long as the number of German marks in circulation.
Proper spectacles, furnished free, would correct this defect. Wisely cities are realizing that brains cannot be trained to function at their best unless expert care is devoted to pupils' eyes, teeth, diet and other physical factors.

SUNDAY
He has preached 22,000 sermons—Canon Hay Aitken, England's greatest revivalist. Aged, but in good health, so he may pass John Wesley's record of 27,000 sermons.
Vicar Aitken's observation is that church-going habits have been broken down by the invention of the bicycle and auto. He overlooks golf. "Every new benefit which science has conferred upon us has been used to take men away from the churches."
An exception is radio, which has created an invisible church audience numbering into the millions.

SUPER-POWER DEVELOPMENT

Muscle Shoals, according to Carl D. Thompson at the Epworth Assembly, is merely one link in a chain. This is a fact which the country is gradually grasping. One needs to beware lest at this point his imagination run away with him, but there isn't much doubt that revolutionary "super-power" development is in near prospect for this country.
By "super-power" is meant the developing and linking together into a balanced system, the country's sources of mechanical power. This means development and inter-linking of water powers and the burning of coal at the mine and the transmission of its energies by electric cable instead of freight car. Developing water power involves flood control and reclamation of arid lands. Out of it all flows to the point, where needed, the electric current which is to turn the wheels of the future. The little individual power plant is to go. For our factory wheels as well as our dining room lights will tap a common stream of electric power.
The country's ablest engineers, including Herbert Hoover, entertain this dream as something already under fulfillment. The centralization of electric power into larger and larger mills is going on at a rapid rate. We see this in progress in Nebraska as well as elsewhere. And along with and beyond it lies what may well be a paramount political issue within another four or eight years. We have thought of railroads as fearful in their power over us all for weal or woe. The super-power of tomorrow will control the railroads with the rest. How is the new Frankenstein, having in its keeping our very economic breath of life to be controlled? Subject here for a political struggle of first magnitude.—Lincoln Journal.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Two men are in the city jail charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.
One hundred thousand people are in this community wondering when the highways of the country will be even as safe as the battlefields of France. America lost 48,000 killed in France in eighteen months. In the last eighteen months in this country 98,000 persons were slain by automobiles. Twenty-five thousand of those were children.
But, this matter of drunken drivers is the most serious menace to the public safety today. It is a problem that the police and the courts can settle.
It is a problem that the public will demand that the police and the courts settle. With the number of drunken drivers increasing, even the slightest error of theirs does not kill some one, it appears that it is time for drastic penalties to be meted out to the offenders.
A man who takes a gun and goes out to commit murder is safer than a drunken fool at the steering wheel of an automobile.
The former is the enemy of women and children, and is as likely to mow down a dozen with one turn of the wheel as he is to take a car into the Ohio river.—Evansville Journal.

MANDAN NEWS

MEN TRANSFERRED

Seven men have already been transferred to the mechanical department of the Northern Pacific shops here, all of them coming from Dickinson where they have been in employment of the railroad, the shops being cut down to a minimum force. About the same number of men have been transferred to Glendive.
Running of the passenger locomotives for the two hundred mile jumps, the reason for the closing of this week on the Yellowstone division. Still more men are to be added to the various departments of the Mandan round house. No increases have been announced in the car repair or supply departments of the shops.
Promotions for some of the heads of the round house departments are expected in the Dakota, Yellowstone and Montana divisions and numerous changes are now pending.

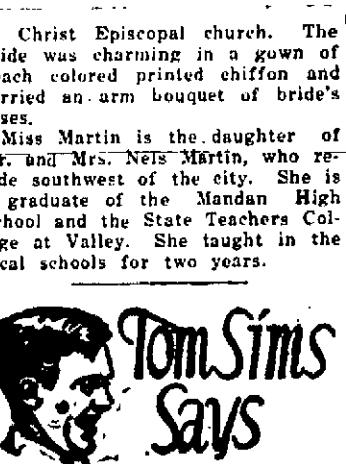

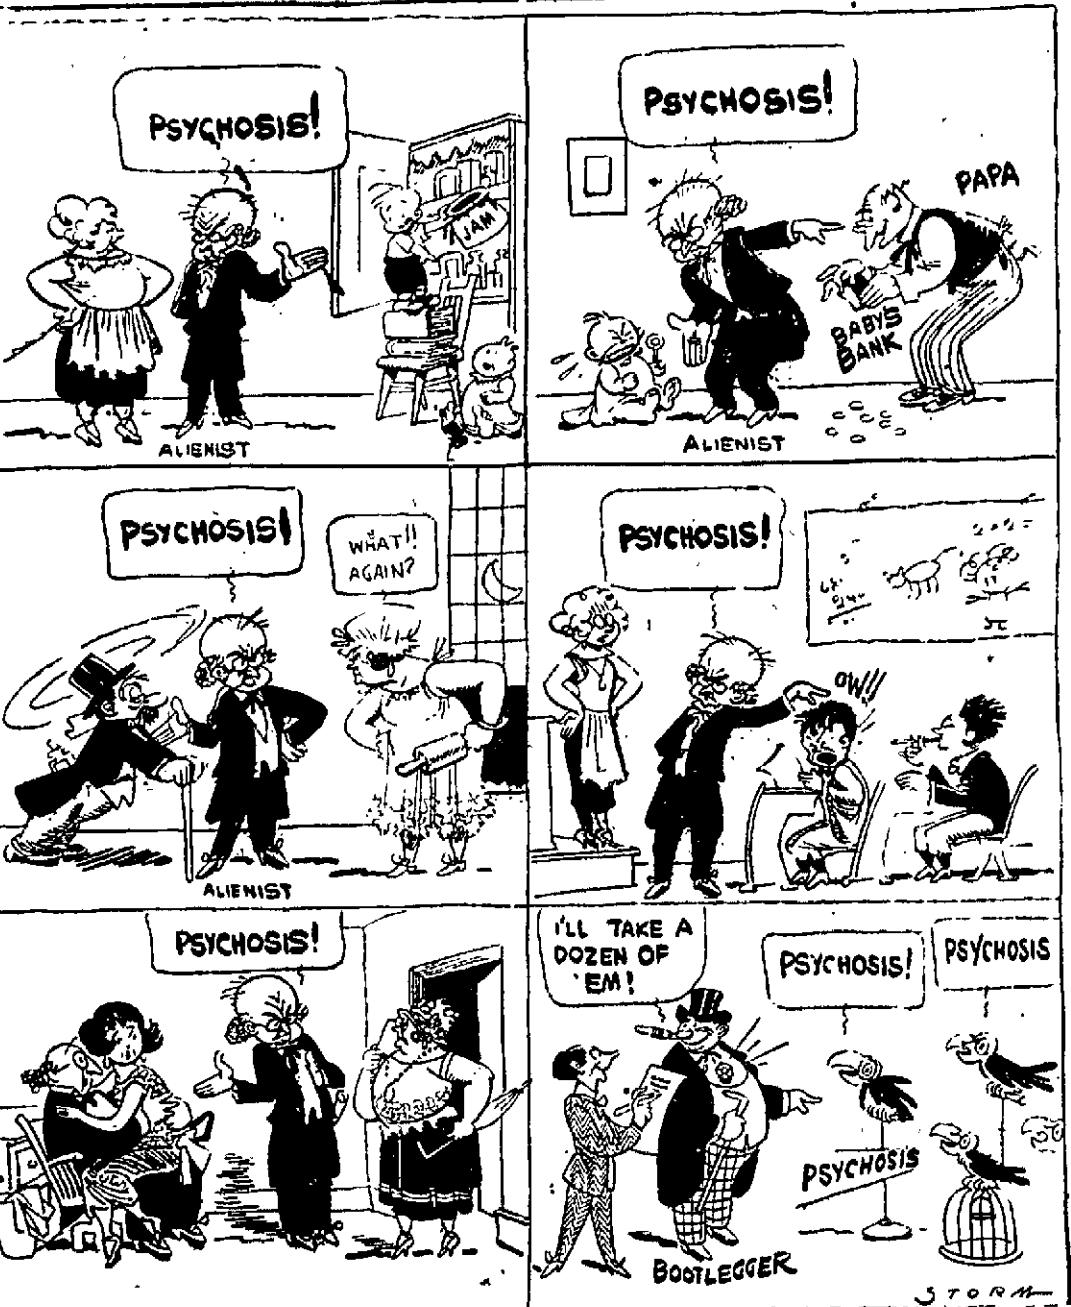

TO TEACH IN PANAMA

Three Mandan girls, Miss Wilfred Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson, and the Misses Louise and Antonio Gruenfelder, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Gruenfelder, will teach during the next year in the Panama canal zone. They will sail from New York on September 22nd and will be assigned their schools on reaching Panama.
Miss Simpson plans to leave sometime during the next week for Crockett, Minn., where she formerly taught, to spend several days with friends, leaving there for Omaha, Neb., to visit with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Lough. She will also visit in New York with friends before sailing. The Misses Gruenfelder plan to visit in New York City and with their brother, Francis Gruenfelder at West Point, before leaving for Panama.

MARTIN-BRINSMADE

A quiet but very pretty wedding, and probably a surprise to many friends in the city, took place Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Martin, when Miss Ellen Martin became the bride of J. C. Brinsmade, Jr.
Only the immediate members of the bride's family, Mr. and Mrs. Means and Thomas Killard, were present at the ceremony which was performed by Rev. F. H. Davenport.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Is your vacation nearly over, Weeny?" asked Nancy.
"Over!" remarked Weeny in surprise. "I should say not! When I take a vacation I take a big one. I'm a big person and I never do anything little. No siree! My vacation isn't half over yet. Why? Are you Twins getting tired?"
"Oh, no!" said Nancy. "I only asked because I was afraid maybe it might be, and I'm having such a good time, and I want it to last as long as possible."
"So do I!" declared Nick.
"That's just fine!" said Weeny happily giving each of them a hug with his long trunk. "So now I suppose you want to go with me to visit some more of my circus friends?"
"Yes, we do!" cried both Twins together.
"We've visited so many there aren't very many left," said Weeny thoughtfully. "But I think we'd better visit Tommy Tiger next. He'd feel awfully upset if he thought I was visiting around and left him out."
So to Tommy Tiger's house they went.
"Hello," said Tommy when he saw them. "Where are you going?"
"No place!" said Weeny. "We're not going. We're coming. We've come to visit you."
"Hooryay!" cried Tommy Tiger. "Leave your satchel on the porch and come on over to the playground with me. I was just stating."
"Sure," said Weeny. "We'll come right away. Slide down off my back, Nick, will you, and set my satchel on Tommy's front porch."
Soon everybody was ready and off they all started for the playground where Tommy Tiger and his friends had such a good time.
There were swings and sliding boards and sand-piles and see-saws and everything you could think of to make the jungle children happy.
"Let's try the see-saw first," said Tommy Tiger. "Nancy and Nick can take a turn and then Weeny and I can take a turn. Then we can go turn about until we get tired."
So the Twins took their turn on the see-saw, and then it was time for Weeny and Tommy to get on.
Tommy got on his end of the board and Weeny was just going to sit down on his end of the board when his feet slipped and down he went on it—smack! like a top of coal.
And Tommy Tiger flew up over the tree-tops like a stone out of a slingshot and disappeared from view altogether—like a shooting-star, as Nick said afterwards.
"Oh, dear! Dearie me!" exclaimed Weeny. "Now look what I went and did. We'll have to find Tommy and bring him back. If he's lost his mama and papa will bite my head off."
So Nancy and Nick and Weeny went to look for Tommy Tiger, and at last they found him sticking away up in a palm tree about a hundred feet high.
If he hadn't been a circus tiger and used to jumping he never, never would have gotten down. But he did at last.
And he was so good natured that he only laughed about it. "That was the best ride I ever had," he said. "Let's go back to the playground and have some more fun."
So away they went.

FIRE DESTROYS BATHING TENT

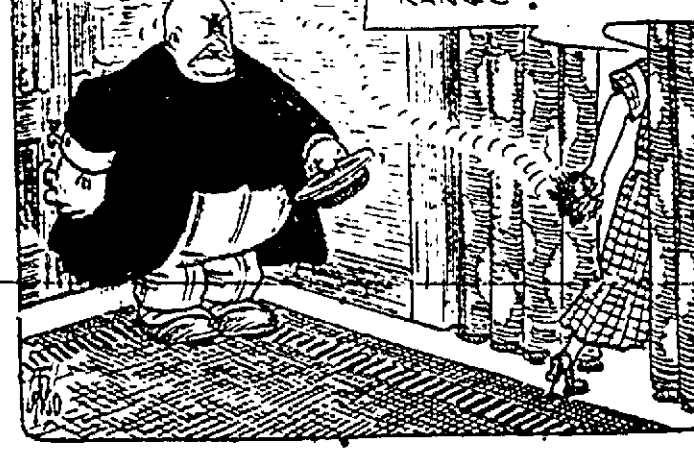

Braddock, N. D., Aug. 18.—A cigarette left burning in the tent in which they had donned bathing suits started a fire which completely destroyed the tent and forced four local young men to travel 30 miles in the "heat of nothing." Four couple of local young folks went to Lake Isabel for the day's outing and two tents were erected. As the party was enjoying the swimming they noticed the one tent in flames but were unable to scramble to shore fast enough to save their clothing. The second tent in which the girls had donned bathing suits caught fire but their clothes were saved.

TWO THOUSAND CHANCES

By Albert Apple

There are 2000 different lines of work that a boy or girl can follow when they strike out into the world for themselves. This figure is unearthed by Doris Maddow, the vocational guidance expert. Meaning, that she specializes at helping young people select the work they are best fitted for.
Two thousand different lines of work mean 2000 different kinds of opportunity. For there is opportunity in every field, always leaders and plenty of room for more.
Success comes to relatively few. It depends on natural ability, concentration and luck or the law of chance.

Do you ever stop to think how much easier it is for a man to select an occupation with great possibilities, than it used to be?

Many now living can recall when a young fellow's choice of vocations was limited. He might become a farmer, a tradesman, lawyer, doctor, dentist, railroad man, keeper of a lively stable, carpenter, mason, blacksmith, machinist, Jack-of-all-trades.

That didn't complete the list. But his selection was not nearly as varied as today. Consider, for instance, the new forms of work created for millions of people by the auto—the various stages of manufacturing, selling, repairing and the great side-fields of gasoline and accessories.

Radio has created many entirely new vocations. So have the movies. So have airplanes, industrial chemistry and other new activities.

Choose your career as carefully as you would choose a life mate. Miss Maddow advises. She speaks words of wisdom. One can get rid of an uncongenial husband or wife easier than to change lines of work after years of training in one line have bred habit.

With 2000 different ways of making a living to choose from, there is no excuse for anyone not finding work he loves.

Nature distributes our inclinations shrewdly. There are just enough "born mechanics" or "born doctors" to meet needs, and so with every activity. Many get into the wrong line—are misfits—and, discontented and half-hearted, fail.

Instinct will guide most of us to the right work. Much failure is directly due to well-meaning but misguided parents who sway the child from his natural inclination and try to make, for instance, a lawyer out of a born mechanic or a mechanic out of a born lawyer.

He has to live with his job. Let him select it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Romance is medieval days of knights and fairy not dead. A spinster of 45, retiring in the presence of men, lives in a picturesque abode in Westchester county, a short car ride from the bustle of New York.

She has the idealistic, romantic view of life of an adolescent girl. For years, I am told, she has clung to the outer fringes of life. The nearest she has come to entering the abounding places of the sophisticated life she sees from a distance, is the time she sold some hand-beaded bags to a shopkeeper in Greenwich Village.

Independently wealthy, this naive maiden of middle age is not without personal charm. Beside her home, on a rolling lawn, she has had erected a tower, soaring many feet above the top of her house. Much of her time is spent here. From its glass-encased cupola the gay lights of giddy Broadway are visible at night.

Men with waxed mustaches, wearing perfect-fitting riding uniforms, hasten past on spirited horses. They are the gallants of today.

There is little doubt but that she lives, in thought at least, in the medieval days of knights and fairy princes, hoping that one of the chameleons who ride past her castle, will awaken her from romantic dreams.

It is in direct contrast to the aggressive coquetry of today's maiden.

Poverty and affliction usually deserve sympathy—but not always.

There have been many examples of public beggars, who collected alms on prominent corners by day, and spent them in secluded, luxurious haunts after sundown.

However, yesterday I paused to talk with an aged, blind beggar. She was accompanied by her grandson and was standing before the entrance of an uptown hotel.

Playing a ukulele, she was attempting in a creaking voice to mingle old lyrics with the flapper's jargon.

Neither her voice nor her ukulele carried above the din of heavy traffic. She was worthy of aid, I am positive.

After talking to her for five minutes, an unusual lump came in my throat. She was an optimist.

After I left her I sent my mother out in Lafayette, Ind., a present.

Karl Whitney stopped, abashed. "I beg your pardon," he said. "I did not think I was interrupting anything private."
Mother turned to him. "Karl," she said, "I want to ask you some questions."
"Don't tell him, mother, don't tell him. I did it because I love him. I did it because I love him. Don't tell him. He will always hate me, if he knows."
Poor Karl, Ruth, stood there looking very uncomfortable. Mother raised Alice to her feet, but looked at her in horror. It seemed to her that my mother was looking at her daughter as though she were a total stranger.
Finally she found words: "Excuse me for a little while, Karl," she said. "Then I will clear this matter entirely up to your satisfaction as well as my own."
"Leslie, I am telegraphing for your husband to bring the baby over himself. I think it's important that he should be here. I know your father will want to see him as soon as he's able to see any one."
As soon as mother and Alice had left the room, Karl turned to me and said:
"What does this mean, Leslie? What is the matter with Alice? She hasn't been herself for quite a while. In fact, I came over today to find out what was wrong with her."
"I'm going to ask you a very pertinent question, Karl? Are you very fond of Alice?"
Karl hesitated, turning red, then white.
"Yes, I think I am as fond of her as I will ever be of any woman. I suppose, Leslie, I am what they call a one-woman man; but that is all gone by. We won't talk about it."
"Karl, may I give those pearls you gave me back to Alice for a wedding present?"
"What is the matter? Is all this fuss being made about that foolish string of pearls again. Alice doesn't want those pearls."
"Yes she does, Karl—so much so that she is perfectly willing to break up my home to get them."
"Leslie, I can't hear this, even from you. You must be mad."
"The nurse came in at this moment, saying that my father wanted me. I spent the whole afternoon with him, and so here the matter stands. Mother has sent for Jack. Alice hasn't left her room all day today, and Karl has vanished. Just what the next day or two will bring forth I haven't the slightest idea.
Lovingly,
LESLIE.

FABLES ON HEALTH

SWIMMING HEALTHFUL

Vacation days at an end. Mr. Jones was inclined to slip back into his careless routine of living.
"Doing any swimming?" the physical director asked him when they met one day.
"Not since my vacation," answered Mr. Jones.
"That's what they all say. They all go away for two weeks or a month; start getting their physical selves built up and then come home feeling pretty peppy; they go at top speed on the little energy newly acquired or slide back into their chair and take on a large-sized bay window."
"You fellows have an idea that you can get through the year on the two weeks or a month that you use in getting back to nature."
"The least you can do is keep up one form of exercise. For chest, shoulder and body development generally there's nothing like a good course in swimming. It's fine for the wind of getting like yourself; gets you in the habit of breathing more regularly and forces deep breathing. There's a good tank at your gymnasium, and the reaction from the plunge is enough to help you tone up by itself."
"Go through a good course of exercises and then jump in the tank. Or get down to the lake or seashore on Sunday, if you can. And if there's no place to swim, take a good shower and rubdown after your exercise."

LOCALS WHALE ST. PAUL TEAM IN TWO GAMES

Take Contests From Northern Pacific Team Both Saturday and Sunday

The Bismarck Independents treated fans to a real baseball Sunday afternoon, taking a thrilling contest from the Northern Pacific Giants, fast semi-professional baseball team of St. Paul, by a score of 3 to 1. Following on the victory of the locals by a 2 to 0 score Saturday evening, the locals had won two out of the three contests.

Charley Boardman, the port-sider who has flung balls in about every lot in North Dakota, was on the mound for the locals, and he pitched a beautiful game, allowing the visitors but five hits, of which only two were runs. He got fine support too, but two bobbles being recorded by the locals. The only run of the visitors came in the last frame of Sunday's game, and was unearned. Boardman fanned 14 men.

The N. P. team came to Bismarck after a tour in Montana, where the team had won most of its games.

CHESTY EDICT BRINGS FAME TO PITCHER THURSTON

Insisted He Was a Big Leaguer And Wanted To Prove It

HOLLIS THURSTON

BY BILLY EVANS

Each year produces one or more new pitching sensations. Last season George Uhle of Cleveland and Adolph Luque of Cincinnati were the bright shining stars. It is baseball history that few pitchers have ever had two big years in succession. Apparently with as much stuff as ever, Luque and Uhle have been unable to win consistently this year.

In the American League Hollis Thurston of Chicago has supplanted Uhle in the spotlight, while Emil Yule of the Pirates is the big noise in the National.

Unlimited confidence in his ability to make good has made possible the great success that has come to Thurston this year.

Had Thurston been content to warm the bench, act as relief twirler, in general play the role of second string pitcher, he would probably still be with the St. Louis Browns, unknown to fame.

preme court upheld the local jurist. The decision cited, however, that in case the objectionable acts cited in the complaint should actually transpire, the use of the premises would constitute a nuisance.

The case was reintroduced by the plaintiff after games had been played, before Judge G. H. Moellring who granted a temporary injunction, and when the hearing was called to determine whether the order should be made permanent, the defendants procured a change of venue to Judge Burr's court on an affidavit of prejudice. More than a score of neighbors were called in to testify, some by the defense and others by the plaintiff, concerning the alleged nuisance created by the ball games.

Blaisdell Brothers Defeat Grand Forks Men

Fargo, Aug. 18.—Leonard and Jonathan Blaisdell, Minot tennis stars, Sunday won the North Dakota state doubles tennis championship by defeating Wilkerson and Paul Loughlin of Grand Forks, in three sets, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

The victory came as a fitting climax for the former Minot star, who despite his defeat for the state singles championship by Mel Hodge, Saturday, succeeded in defeating his Fargo rival in the semi-finals for the Red River Valley singles title and then to defeat Trafford Jayne of Minneapolis in the finals after Jayne defaulted in the fourth round after the Minot City star won two games ahead and held a lead of two sets to one.

PRISON TEAM LOSES AGAIN AT BASEBALL

Turtle Lake came from behind in a good ball game on the local field Sunday afternoon and defeated Grove 10 to 7. R. E. Smith, on the mound for Grove, pitched nice ball all the way, but due to poor support in the pinches was beaten. Turtle Lake started the scoring in the second frame, when Boehm, the visitors' first baseman, stepped into a fast one bounding out a homer and scoring one man ahead of him. Grove came back strong in their half, gathering five hits from the offerings of Sprout, Turtle Lake's star moundman, which netted them five runs.

Turtle Lake came back in a batting rally, and on two hits, a pass and an error, counted three runs. Scott, playing first for Grove, clouted one over the wall in the 3rd putting Grove into the lead. Neither team crossed the plate until the 7th, when Grove counted once off of two hits and an error. The visitors again put on a hitting rally, scoring two runs on one hit, and two errors in the eighth. The locals could not score in their half of the eighth, but Turtle Lake could not be stopped and adopted drastic methods to get the big opportunity.

The St. Louis club didn't like Thurston's attitude. Waivers were asked on him, and the Chicago club alone put in a claim for the pitcher, who is now leading the American League.

No doubt the White Sox can thank Ernie Johnson, then playing short for Chicago, now utility man with the New York Yankees, for the acquisition of Thurston. Johnson for several years had managed the Salt Lake club. Thurston had been one of his best pitchers; he knew what he could do. He advised Chicago to take him over.

Last season Thurston pitched good ball; this year he is going great. Every club in the American League would be willing to pay big figures for his services.

Yet, had Thurston lacked ambition, been content to be a bench warmer, he probably wouldn't be baseball's most talked-about pitcher today.

Johnson Saved Thurston

That was the ultimatum Thurston delivered to the St. Louis club. It sounded rather chesty, but Thurston isn't that sort of a chap. He simply

Didn't Like Sub Roles

Two years ago Thurston was bought by the St. Louis Americans from the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast League. A winning pitcher in that organization, he made but little progress at St. Louis.

Playing the role of mere substitute didn't make a hit with Thurston. He wanted to start games, not finish contests that appeared hopelessly lost before he broke into the lineup.

"Give me a chance to start some ball games or else send me to some other American League club. If no other team in the American League wants me, give me a ticket back to the minors. I want to be some place where I can pitch in regular turn. I am either a big leaguer or a busher and want a chance to establish my status."

Johnson Saved Thurston

That was the ultimatum Thurston delivered to the St. Louis club. It sounded rather chesty, but Thurston isn't that sort of a chap. He simply counted three runs in the ninth on three hits, two errors and a pass. Grove could not connect successfully with Sprout's offerings in their last chance. The fast Northern Pacific shop team from Jamestown comes to the Penitentiary next Sunday, August 24th, for a game with Grove.

NEW PROBLEMS IN POLITICS ARE EVOLVED

complete its work quickly so that, if a recall election is held, it may be held on November 4, at the time of the general election, according to W. E. Dyer, the Association president.

Under the law recall petitions must contain 30 percent of the votes cast at the last general election for Governor. Since 191,369 votes were cast in this election more than 57,000 names would be necessary on recall petitions. The proposal is not regarded as likely of culmination, even by some of those favoring the recall.

To Hire Manager

Another change of the Nonpartisan League method of doing business was the decision to engage a salaried campaign manager. R. W. Frazier, member of the League executive committee, took a little conference that the committee had agreed on this course and would accept the recommendations of that body. Three names were submitted—E. J. Pepke of Minot, Wm. Skeels of Bismarck and John Hagan of Bismarck. The committee is seeking Mr. Pepke's services, but says he does not want the place. Hagan, however, declined it while Skeels was an active candidate.

The criticisms of the executive committee were not presented, although one man present invited members of the League committee to come in to the meeting so he could criticize them. Frazier declared the committee admitted its inability to do everything it wanted and ruled that criticisms were out of order. There has been much disagreement between the committee members, who are Ole Knutson of Grand Forks, S. S. McDonald of Bismarck and Mr. Frazier. The committee will remain in charge of the League organization work, and the campaign manager will have on that matter to deal with, Frazier said.

Use of Canvas Modern
It was not until 1520 that artists began to use canvas. The masters previous to that time worked in ceramics or painted on wood and walls, then on canvas stretched to a frame.
Many of the great painters ground the pigments and mixed their own colors, says the Detroit News.
American supplies of art and industrial paint are dependent on a large variety of foreign raw materials. We import Windsor and Newton, and still—in the opinion of artists, do not make colors that give the appearance of sgs.

Many Volcanic Craters in the United States

When we think of volcanoes we generally associate them with some foreign country, but here in our own domain we have within a comparatively restricted area a group of 33 volcanic craters. This is in Idaho and the place is called the "Craters of the Moon," because the landscape is so cold looking and so barren of vegetation, that it resembles the landscape of the moon as it seems to us when viewed through a telescope. While it is barren it is not without color, for there is considerable variation in the tints of the ground, which is covered with the "frozen" lava which flowed from these craters a few hundred years ago. There is one field which is called the Blue Dragon, which is lava of a beautiful azure tint and with a polish as if it had been varnished. There are cracks in the deposit at regular intervals and all of similar shape, which makes the mass resemble the scales of a great dragon. These volcanic mounds are of various heights and some of interesting formation, with considerable variation as to color. This field is about three miles wide and thirty long and has been recently dedicated to the purpose of a public park. While it is not exactly accessible, it is not a difficult place to get at and at the present time it is little known. It is located between Cary and Arco.

Rich Man Might Better Have Forgotten Penny

In his "Queer Things About London," Mr. G. H. Harper tells the following story:
On the north side of Piccadilly is that famous labyrinthine warren of exceedingly select bachelor chambers, dating from about 1884, and known to most people as "The Albany." By the smart set who reside there however, it is accounted absurd to speak or write of "The Albany." If you perpetrate that grave error, you cannot be "one of us."
Albany has always been affected, as a place of residence, by men of rank and fashion. Herein dwelt the millionaire Baron Meyer de Rothschild and coming from his luxurious chambers one day he dropped a penny on the pavement outside.
He sought long and anxiously for the coin; but vainly, for it had rolled down a grating. Resuming an upright position, he remarked sadly on the fleeting nature of riches. Meanwhile a pickpocket had relieved him of his watch.

What the Dial Was For

"I see that you don't know how to tune this set," the friend observed as he began adjusting the knobs. "But don't let that worry you, old man; we all have to learn, you know." Now, he continued, "did you notice the increased volume of sound as I turned the last dial? Just put the finishing touches on reception, as it were. Of course one cannot teach you the whole game of reception at one sitting; but I will say this much—you would do well to pay particular attention to that dial if you want good quality and plenty of volume. That is one of the most sensitive controls. Condenser, I suppose."
"Yes," said the host. "You see, it is like this: I bored an extra hole in the panel by mistake and I put a knob there to hide it. It does not control anything except the imagination."—Wireless Age.

The "One-Hour" Shay

"My grandfather and grandmother once hired an antiquated four wheeler, driven by a man even older than the cab, whose horse was a greater age than all of them combined, to pay a Sunday afternoon call in a London square nearby. On its funeral way from house to house, the bottom fell out of the box and was too dead to bear the by no means unkind postulation of the hot-tempered old gentleman and the cries of his small and timid spouse, there was nothing for them to do but to run along inside. The laughter of those who gazed with an abandonment of joy at this most unusual sight must have done much to break the gloom of that early Victorian Sabbath."—From "Unwritten History," by Cosmo Hamilton.

Believed Part of It

The men and officers of the navy are known all over the world for their smart appearance, and it was for this reason that one of the officers on board a battleship was rather disconcerted by the untidy appearance of a certain midshipman.
One evening the "midship" strolled into the wardrobe wearing a collar that was, to say the least of it, extremely untidy. This was too much for the officer, and he decided to tackle the young man on the matter.
"Look here," he said, "you ought not to come in here wearing a filthy collar like that round your neck."
"Filthy, sir," replied the midshipman, "I assure you this collar was washed above only yesterday."

Scored on the Orator

The atmosphere was getting slightly heated in the village hall, where the candidate for office was addressing a meeting of those who he hoped would vote for him at the next election.
One of the men in the crowd was determined not to give the aspirant a moment's peace, and he didn't. At last, the speaker lost his last remnant of patience and, shaking his fist at the heckler, he shouted:
"I look upon you, sir, as a confirmed rascal."
"Quite," replied the interrupter, with a sweet smile. "You are perfectly at liberty to look upon me in any character you desire to assume."

Master Thief

THIEVES' JUSTICE

I was rich. For the first time since that day when, starving, I had tossed an airy farewell kiss to honesty, I was able, if I chose, to take up again a place in the sunlit world.
Yes, I whom you know as John Ainsley, the master thief of my day, was so silly as to think that I could step from the shadow into the light as easily, as I had stepped from the light into the shadow, I thought I knew life.
I thought that a man could change his character as easily as he changed his clothes. Well, I was to learn differently.
But on this spring night I built myself air-castles. I had been down to a certain section of the city and had closed a deal with a "fence," a man who bought from thieves their loot. In a recent memoir of mine I have told how I outwitted Armand Cochet, the notorious French criminal known as the White Eagle. He had stolen from Marcus Anderson, the millionaire, a casket containing all the Anderson jewels. I had stolen the casket from Cochet.

I had waited a few days before attempting to dispose of any of the jewels. Anderson, unaware of his loss, had sailed for South America on the morning after the theft. But the profits of this latest venture of mine had been so tremendous that I wished to use more than ordinary caution in realizing them. I wanted to dispose of the lot at one transaction. I was a gentleman, no vulgar trader, and I would rather accept less for the lot from one man, than make more by peddling.

So I had shown this fence the complete Anderson collection; and he had offered me three hundred thousand dollars, perhaps a fifth of their real value. But even that amount was too huge a sum for him to hand casually across a counter. It would take him a week to raise the money. And in seven more days I would be independent, freed forever from the necessity of crime!

So I thought, I even congratulated myself that I was of such different clay from the ordinary criminal. For your everyday thief is potentially a murderer, and worse. Devoid of imagination, he steals because stealing seems easier than working. Trapped, he kills.

Oh, I was a philosopher, as I sat in the window of my living-room and looked out upon Central Park, with its freshly green grass, its newly leaved trees, the lovers walking along the shady paths or drifting in their boats on the little pond.

I was unique in history. I was a criminal who could rid myself of criminality at will, who could cut myself off forever from the ways of wickedness. I felt more than savage wrath; I felt contempt, as I tossed away from me the evening paper with its glaring headline.

It was a sickening story beneath the headline. It told of the discovery by the police of evidence indicating the identity of a brute who had shocked the city three days ago by the wanton slaying of a child.

The child had been alone in the apartment where she lived with her parents. A burglar had entered, and finding the girl alone, had killed her. Apparently for the sheer joy of killing. The crime had been justified not even by necessity. The child could have been bound and gagged if the man had feared that her outcry would cause his capture. But the little girl, seeing the intruder, had asked him not to take a locket which was her mother's gift to her. Enraged at her request, he had struck her. Her parents had returned later; before she died, she had told them the facts.

It was one of those shocking crimes that periodically make us wonder how far a man is removed from the best of the best when he enters into mourning, and made detectives out of a hundred thousand citizens.

And now the police had discovered that Swede Thomassen, a notorious jailbird, was the murderer. The dragnet was spread, and the authorities were confident that the man would be apprehended within a day or so. I fervently hoped so; I would have killed him myself and known no compunction.

I had read the sordid story of Swede Thomassen's career as the paper gave it. And I saw that he had begun as a cheap gangster, had graduated into petty theft, had then become a highwayman, and was now a red-handed murderer. I was even the stage of my reading that I began to congratulate myself because I was so different from Thomassen. This difference made me the great success that I was. For other thieves visualize their career in terms of crime, thefts; I visualized a life of righteousness.

And now, with three hundred thousand dollars to be mine next week, my plans became clean-cut, definite, not mere chaotic hopes. It would be simple. I would go to Australia. I would stay there two or three years. Then I would return to America. I would go to that city where I had been born and brought up, and where my family was known and respected. I would join my father's club; I would enter into the civic life of the community. I would even—this was the compelling force behind my plans—marry.

It was spring; only a few days ago I had felt the urge to lead the normal life of men of my age and tradition. I wanted to take a pretty girl motoring, to dance with her, to squeeze her hand, to kiss her, perhaps to make her love me, to love her, to marry. I could possibly do all these things now; but if I were not honest, I was at least honorable. I could ask no girl to entangle herself with a man upon whose collar a policeman might any day place his heavy hand.

But in the few days that had elapsed since I felt the urge of spring, my circumstances had changed. I was rich; if I left America and stayed away awhile, then returned and gave out that I had amassed a fortune in far-off Australia, who would doubt me? All danger from the police would have vanished in that time. My depredations would have ceased, and the police would have assumed that the mysterious criminal who had baffled them so frequently, had died. I would be running no risk of entangling an innocent maiden in my peccadilloes.

I would invest my money in my home town; I would choose some sweet and lovely girl for my wife. I am personable; I have the Ainsley manner. Other men win charming wives. Why could not I do so?

I had created an Eden for myself. I had peopled it with a lovely Eve, and with out children. And into Eden came the snake.

The doorbell rang; my servant was gone for the day. I was too cautious to keep any curious person around my apartment all the time; so the woman who prepared my meals, kept my apartment in order always left shortly after dinner. So I must answer the bell myself.

It was the first time that I had ever rung save in the daytime, when tradespeople called. I felt a sudden chill at the sound. Then I mastered my panic. Some neighbor might be calling on me, though this was improbable in New York. Or some one may have rung the bell by mistake. It was incredible that the police should suspect the quiet living gentleman who dwelt on the fourth floor of the walk-up apartment building. And certainly the White Eagle was not known where to find the man who had so deftly tricked him a few nights ago. So I put on a calm front as I opened the door.

My caller stepped swiftly inside. "I come from Leedon," he said. "Leedon was the fence with whom my deal was pending."

"Doesn't Leedon know better than to send anyone here?" I demanded angrily.

The intruder was in my living-room now, and in the electric light I could see him. A big, burly, gross looking man, with light red hair, bell-shaped blue eyes and a preposterous, stubble-whiskered jaw.

"I didn't say Leedon sent me; I said I came from him," answered. "What do you mean?" I asked. "I mean that Leedon, for old times' sake, was hiding me when you were dickering with him today. I overheard you talk. And I decided that half of three hundred thousand would just about fix me up. Don't try to draw a gun; I've got you covered through my pocket," he declared.

Western Exchange.—The letter "p" is the most important in the alphabet, because it lends all others in perfection. It is likewise first in peace and prosperity and gives pleasure in its proper form. It is found in every enterprise and aspiration and without its valuable office the anchor of hope would be but a commonplace hope. Besides being foremost in philosophy, it is at the front in patriotism, patience and piety. Purpose has no meaning without it and the pyramids are built upon its base.—Boston Transcript.

Native African Language

The natives of Africa speak three languages—Negroid, Hamitic and Hotentott-Bushman. The Hamitic language, to which ancient Egyptian belonged, is spoken in northern Africa. The Hotentott-Bushman is spoken by the dwarf and pigmy tribes in the central part of the continent. The remainder of the natives speak what is known as the Negroid tongue. All these overlap one another and it cannot be said that all the tribes of central Africa speak any one language. These three languages represent many dialects and seem to be distinct from all other systems of speech. At least no close relation can be discovered between them and other languages.

Beginnings of Music

The beginnings of music-making, as it is practiced by uncivilized people, offer curious reading. Among savage tribes, it is said, the earliest acquired musical phrase is derived quite distinctly from simple howl, the notes sliding down or up a scale by semi-tones. And savages repeat over and over again one phrase, their satisfaction in having mastered which is child-like. As the people rise in the scale of intelligence, their favorite musical phrases grow larger and become more elaborate until a systematized making of music can be clearly discerned.

Characters of History

Razi or Rhazes was an Arabian physician who lived from 822 to 832. He is noteworthy as being the first man to describe smallpox and measles in an accurate manner. Hughbo or Rucbad was a Benedictine monk and writer of music. He was born at Tournai, France, about 840. He later started a school of music and other arts at Verres. He was the inventor of the gamut. The only work positively ascribed to him is the Harmonica Institute. He died in 830.

Many Volcanic Craters in the United States
When we think of volcanoes we generally associate them with some foreign country, but here in our own domain we have within a comparatively restricted area a group of 63 volcanic craters. This is in Idaho and the place is called the "Craters of the Moon" because the landscape is so cold looking and so barren of vegetation that it resembles the landscape of a few hundred years ago. There is one field which is called the Blue Dragon, which is lava of a beautiful aurelian tint and with a polish as if it had been varnished. There are cracks in the deposit at regular intervals and all of similar shape, which makes the mass resemble the scales of a great dragon. These volcanic mounds are of various heights and some of interesting formation, with considerable variation as to color. This field is about three miles wide and thirty long and has been recently closed to the purpose of a public park. While it is not exactly accessible, it is not a difficult place to get at and at the present time it is little known. It is located between Cary and Arco.

What the Dial Was For
"I see that you don't know how to tune this set," the friend observed as he began adjusting the knobs. "But don't let that worry you, old man; we all have to learn, you know. Now," he continued, "did you notice the increased volume of sound as I turned the last dial? Just put the finishing touches on reception, as it were. Of course one cannot teach you the whole game of reception at one sitting; but I will say this much—you would do well to pay particular attention to that dial if you want good quality and plenty of volume. That is one of the most sensitive controls. Cannot I suppose?"

LOCALS WHALE ST. PAUL TEAM IN TWO GAMES

Take Contests From Northern Pacific Team Both Saturday and Sunday

The Bismarck Independents treated fans to a real baseball Sunday afternoon, taking a thrilling contest from the Northern Pacific Giants, fast semi-professional baseball team of St. Paul, by a score of 3 to 1.

Following on the victory of the locals, by a 2 to 0 score Saturday evening, the locals had won two out of the three contests.

Charlie Boardman, the pitcher who has flung balls in about every lot in North Dakota, was on the mound for the locals, and he pitched a beautiful game, allowing the visitors but five hits off his hook and fast ones. He got four support too, but two bobbles being recorded by the locals. The only run of the visitors came in the last frame of Sunday's game, and was unearned. Boardman fanned 14 men.

The N. P. team came to Bismarck after a tour in Montana, where the team had won most of its games. The box score:

MINOT STARS WIN AT TENNIS
Blaisdell Brothers Defeat Grand Forks Men
Fargo, Aug. 18.—Leonard and Jonathan Blaisdell, Minot tennis stars, Sunday won the North Dakota state doubles tennis championship by defeating Wilkeson and Paul Loughlin of Grand Forks, in three sets, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

The victory came as a fitting climax for the former Minot star, who despite his defeat for the state singles championship by Mel Hodge Saturday, succeeded in defeating his Fargo rival in the semi-finals for the Red River Valley singles title and then to defeat Trafford Jayne of Minneapolis in the finals after Jayne defaulted in the fourth round after the Magic City star was two games ahead and held a lead of two sets to one.

CHESTY EDICT BRINGS FAME TO PITCHER THURSTON

Insisted He Was a Big Leaguer And Wanted To Prove It

HOLLIS THURSTON

Each year produces one or more new pitching sensations. Last season George Uhle of Cleveland and Adolph League of Cincinnati were the bright shining stars. It is baseball history that few pitchers have ever had two big years in success. Apparently with as much stuff as even League and Uhle have been unable to win consistent this year.

In the American League Hollis Thurston of Chicago has supplanted Uhle in the spotlight, while Emil Sorlien of the Pirates is the big noise in the National.

Unlimited confidence in his ability to make good has made possible the great success that has come to Thurston this year.

Had Thurston been content to warm the bench, act as relief twirler, in general play the role of second-string pitcher, he would probably still be with the St. Louis Browns, unknown to fame.

premise court upheld the local jurist. The decision cited, however, that in the objectionable acts cited in the complaint should actually transpire, the use of the premises would constitute a nuisance.

Temporary Injunction
The case was reintroduced by the plaintiff, after games had been played, before Judge G. H. Moellering who granted a temporary injunction, and when the hearing was called to determine whether the order should be made permanent, the defendants procured a change of venue to Judge Gibson's court on an affidavit of prejudice. More than a score of neighbors were called in to testify, some by the defense and others by the plaintiff, concerning the alleged nuisance created by the ball games.

CHARLES FOUTS, DEPUTY STATE EXAMINER, DIES

Charles Fouts, deputy state examiner for the last two years engaged chiefly in examining books of county officials, died in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and will be buried there today, according to a telegram received by Gilbert Semington, state examiner. Mr. Fouts had been in Harrisburg receiving treatment for complications arising from stomach trouble. Mr. Fouts formerly was county auditor of McHenry county. His family, members of whom are with him in Harrisburg, have recently lived in Fargo.

complete its work quickly so that, if a recall election is held, it may be held on November 4, at the time of the general election, according to W. E. Dever, the Association president. Under the law recall petitions must contain 30 percent of the votes cast at the last general election for Governor. Since 1913,69 votes were cast in this election more than 57,000 names would be necessary on recall petitions. The proposal is not regarded as likely of culmination, even by some of those favoring the recall.

To Hire Manager
Another change of the Nonpartisan League method of doing business was the decision to engage a salaried campaign manager. Frazier, member of the League executive committee, told a little conference that the committee had agreed on this course and would accept the recommendation of that body. Three names were submitted—E. J. Pepke of Minot, Wm. Skeels of Bismarck and John Hagan of Bismarck. The committee is seeking Mr. Pepke's services, but he says he does not want the place. Hagan also declined it while Skeels was an active candidate.

The commission of the executive committee were not presented, although one man present invited members of the League committee to come in to the meeting so he could criticize them. Frazier declared the committee admitted its inability to do everything it should and ruled criticisms were out of order. There has been much disagreement between the committee members, who are Ole Knutsen of Grand Forks, S. S. McDonald of Bismarck and Mr. Frazier. The committee will retain charge of the League organization work, and the campaign manager will have only that matter to deal with, Frazier said.

PLAN TO BUY BONUS CLAIMS IN NO. DAKOTA
Negotiations Covering Long Period Are Culminated By State Officials
Legal Action to be Rushed; May Begin Buying Certificates October 1
Negotiations which have covered a period of two years have culminated in tentative arrangements under which former service men of the world war in North Dakota may sell their claims for bonus to state industrial commission, it was announced by members of the commission.

Legal action through a test case will be rushed as rapidly as possible, and if it is satisfactory it is possible that purchase may begin by October, it was stated by Governor R. A. Nestos. No service man would be required to sell his bonus claim.

Two offers were laid before the industrial commission by financial houses, and the bid of R. G. Grant and Company of New York and Chicago was accepted.

Process Used
Process by which bonus claims would be purchased is through system of discounts, based upon probable time bonus claims would be paid through tax receipts. Schedule of discounts will be worked out based upon bid accepted.

Under plan, industrial commission would borrow money from R. M. Grant and Company on notes bearing four percent interest, notes to be based upon following principle of discounts on claims payable before June 1, 1925, 98.35; before June 1, 1926, 96.75; before June 1, 1927, 95.20; before June 1, 1928, 93.85; before June 1, 1929, 92.50; before June 1, 1930, 91.25.

A group of New York houses, composed of Harold Grant and associate, Austin, Grant and Company, Redmond and Company, Caldwell and Company, R. W. French and Company, offered following bid: on notes payable before June 1, 1925, 97.99; before June 1, 1926, 96.09; before June 1, 1927, 94.38; before June 1, 1928, 92.74; before June 1, 1929, 91.27; before June 1, 1930, 89.35.

Must Figure Rate
It is anticipated, it was said by members of commission, that calculation of rate of discount on bonus claims will be figured to yield interest the commission only sufficient money to pay off notes and expenses of administration, and would result in discounts ranging from 6 to 22 percent on each claim. It is estimated that between 11,000 and 16,000 service men could obtain their bonus claims in cash through the method, and that, since bonus claims do not bear interest, the price paid could be compared to par value minus reasonable rate of interest until time claims would be paid under present system of collecting soldier bonus tax.

When Governor Nestos first took office he undertook to arrange method by which service men could convert bonus claims into cash and legislature last winter adopted recommendation made by him empowering industrial commission to purchase claims and fix rate of discount.

FIRE ROUTS HOTEL GUESTS

Much Damage Done in Sunday Morning Minneapolis Blaze

Minneapolis, Aug. 18.—More than 100 persons asleep in the National hotel, Washington and Second avenues south, and in nearby buildings, were driven from their beds early Sunday by fire.

The blaze completely gutted the building formerly known as the Branch store, adjoining the National hotel, and until recently occupied on the upper floors by the Benetol Chemical company.

The total losses were estimated Sunday at approximately $200,000, half of which was on the building. Public drug company, 201 Washington avenue south, $15,000. Town Market men's furnishing store, estimated by Max Lillienfeld, proprietor, at $26,000.

National hotel, damage by smoke and water, estimated at $35,000. Other small losses by smoke, and water were sustained by the National Coffee Shop, 207 Washington avenue south, and the National barber shop, 209 Washington avenue south.

Firemen worked nearly eight hours before the blaze was under control. For a time it was feared that the entire block was doomed.

Dakota Girl, 18, Causes Arrest Of Montana Man

Anaconda, Mont., Aug. 18.—Jacob Masett, alias Michael Koop, has been arrested here for transporting an 18-year-old Holiday, N. D., girl to this city for immoral purposes.

The girl says she met Masett while working as a domestic at Holiday.

Masett is married, and his wife followed the pair to this city. Masett, the girl declared, then tried to square matters by inducing her to marry his brother, a widower with seven children. When she refused, he told her that she could be sent to the penitentiary for running away with him. Frightened at this threat, she says she married Kleton Masett, the brother, a few days ago.

The girl's father, who meanwhile had been tracing his daughter has arrived here and offers to annul her marriage with Kleton Masett and take her home.

Jacob Masett pleaded not guilty when arraigned before a United States commissioner on a white slavery charge. His brother, it is said, may face a charge of conspiracy.

The girl claims she did not know Jacob Masett was married. She has an infant by him, born several weeks ago.

DAVIS TOLD HE HAS CHANCE IN NORTHWEST

R. B. Murphy of North Dakota and W. W. Howes of South Dakota Report

QUOTES IN N. Y. TIMES

Optimistic reports were given to John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the presidency, and Clem Shaver, chairman of the Democratic national committee, by R. B. Murphy of Bismarck, Democratic national committeeman from North Dakota and W. W. Howes, committee member from South Dakota, at Clarkburg, West Virginia, where the committee gathered for the Davis notification ceremonies.

The New York Times, in an article from Clarkburg, says:

Particularly welcome was the information brought by R. B. Murphy, National Committeeman from North Dakota, and W. W. Howes, member of the committee from South Dakota. It had been generally believed that the fight in these States would be between Senator Robert M. La Follette, third party candidate, and President Coolidge, but Mr. Murphy and Mr. Howes told Mr. Davis that he had an excellent chance to carry both.

Coolidge-La Follette Division Mr. Murphy said he based his belief that Mr. Davis would carry North Dakota on a special situation there, which he believed would lead thousands of regular Republicans to vote the Democratic national ticket.

"Four of the five Republican candidates for Presidential electors are La Follette men and have announced that they would vote for Senator La Follette if elected," Mr. Murphy said. "The situation is of interest from a Democratic viewpoint, and results from the action of President Coolidge's pre-convention managers in rejecting Senator La Follette into the North Dakota primary fight to beat Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who at that time was believed to have a good chance of electing the delegates to the Republican National Convention."

"The scheme worked all right so far as defeating the Johnson candidates for delegates was concerned, but it resulted in the nomination of four La Follette men for electors. Although there is a separate La Follette electoral ticket in North Dakota, the four La Follette candidates on the Republican ticket refuse to withdraw, and as the situation is now Senator La Follette would get five electoral votes if his third party ticket should carry the State and four if the Republicans should carry it."

Legal Action "Legal action has been to get the La Follette men off the Republican ticket, but, judging from the precedents of 1912, when Roosevelt candidates for elector on the Republican ticket in several States, it does not look as though it would be successful."

"The result will be that many Coolidge Republicans will vote for the Democratic electoral candidates, on the theory that they would rather have their votes counted for Davis than for La Follette, and we have received assurance to that effect."

"The likelihood of this is increased by the situation regarding the State ticket. A. G. Sorlie, a member of the Nonpartisan League, defeated Governor R. A. Nestos for the Republican nomination for Governor and is running against H. L. Halvorson, Democrat. The conservative Republicans will vote for Halvorson and the alignment in North Dakota, in both State and national contests, should be about the same as in former successful fights against the Non-Partisan League."

EXPERTS PLAN TO TELL ABOUT NEW DRUGS

New York, Aug. 18.—Development of pharmacy, involving the study of strange drugs, problems of education, manufacture and standardization, and the hazards of exploring the plant life of the jungles will be outlined at the third annual meeting of the National Conference on Pharmaceutical Research to be held in Buffalo, N. Y., Saturday, Aug. 23, according to an announcement here by Prof. H. V. Army of Columbia University, president of the American Pharmaceutical Association. Two sessions, to be attended by delegates from every state, are planned.

Sources and identification of botanic drugs, now more abundant because of recent discoveries in the wilds of South America, will be described in the report of a research committee, whose efforts, it is said, are opening up new avenues of human knowledge.

Nine other research committees, composed of leading scientists in pharmaceutical science, will present reports dealing with the chemistry of drug plants, biological products, business research, manufacture of medicinal chemicals, dispensing pharmacy, and standardization of botanic drugs.

CROPS CHECK INCENDIARISM

Good crop conditions in North Dakota already are having the effect of checking incendiaryism, according to State Fire Marshal H. L. Reade. There are, however, numerous suspicious fires being investigated by his department, he said, including the recent burning of an old, unused mill at Ashley, elevator fire at Lucena, Barnes county, and several farm fires in Slope and other counties.

GERMAN ENVOY AT PARLEY

Negotiations between allied countries and German representatives over evacuation of the Ruhr have caused the gathering in London of many European premiers and statesmen. Here Dr. Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, is seen leaving the foreign office where the discussions are being held.

A SERMON FROM THE GALLOWS

With the noose around his neck, Enzohe Vidrine, youthful slayer of five persons, asked that his picture be taken so that all young men could see the folly of crime. He then warned against women, firearms and liquor. Following his execution at Ville Platte, La., his body was placed in the public square, his last request, for the public to gaze upon as a warning against failure to live cleanly and honestly.

WHITE HOUSE MOVES HERE

When President Coolidge goes to his home town in Plymouth, Vt., executive offices of his staff will be established on the second floor of this old village building. It was in this building that the president was born. The lower floor is occupied by the village store and is a gathering place for villagers, while the upper story has been used as a public hall. Arrow indicates room where the president will transmit business.

HIS "SPIRIT" SAT WITH THEM

When the boys of '61 gathered at Boston for their annual camp fire meetings, Mrs. J. C. Black of Atlantic City, N. J., created interest by carrying the picture of her late husband, General Black. He was the youngest brigadier general of the Civil War. Mrs. Black is wearing the dress her mother wore during the war. It is hand made.

$363,993,700 IS ESTIMATED N.D. PRODUCTION

Huge Total of Wealth Produced on Farms This Year Estimated by Devine

DIVERSIFIED PRODUCTS

Value of Them Is Almost as Great as the Grain Crop This Year

North Dakota's teeming farms will produce products for the market valued at $363,993,700, based upon August 1 estimates of production and prices, according to Commissioner of Immigration J. M. Devine, who prepared figures to accompany county exhibits being taken to fairs in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota in the interest of immigration.

"North Dakota is now beginning to harvest her greatest money-making crop since statehood," declared Mr. Devine, "and the big thing regarding this crop is that it is equally good in every township and county in the state. The frequently quoted expression, which Eastern reporters so glibly enunciated, both by word and pen, and spread broadcast throughout the East and Middle West, namely, 'That pain in the Northwest,' must now be changed, so far as North Dakota is concerned, to 'That smile that won't come off.'"

The general excellence of the grain crop does not provide all the money value, Mr. Devine finds, but is equally great in the so-called diversified agricultural products, which but a few years ago counted but little in the general aggregate of values, but which is now rapidly approaching, and in a few more years will surpass, the grain value production.

Mr. Devine's estimate, which he says is conservative, based upon the condition of grains August 1 and prices of that date follows:

Wheat	91,612,000	$119,005,600
Oats	68,208,000	34,104,000
Barley	30,824,000	23,125,500
Rye	14,515,000	13,063,000
Flax	15,280,000	39,200,000
Wild Hay	1,500,000 tons	10,500,000

Total Diversified $233,088,600

The value of diversified productions is figured by Dr. Devine as follows:

Corn (34,720,000 bu.)	$ 3,720,000
Potatoes (12,733,000 bu.)	8,955,100
Millet, timothy, broom grass	1,805,000
Sweet clover	3,680,000
Alfalfa	2,520,000
Corn fodder and silage	5,250,000
Hogs (590,000)	8,850,000
Poultry, poultry products	11,560,000
Beef stock, sheep, wool	7,900,000
Dairy products	38,600,000
Honey production	450,000
Alfalfa, sweet clover seed	525,000

Total $124,905,100

The total value of the entire agricultural production is $559,655 for every man, woman and child in the state, according to Mr. Devine. "North Dakota of 1924, agriculturally speaking, is not the North Dakota of 1916, but a new North Dakota wherein corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, milk cows, beef stock, hogs, poultry, sheep and honey have a high and important place in all farming activities and production," said Mr. Devine.

START AFTER GAME 'SOONERS'

Game Wardens to Work in This Section

Are there many "sooners" out? The Tribune has been informed by various persons that many prairie chickens are being shot out of season. Barney Maurek, game warden, doubts it, but he is going to find out.

The game warden, and others, are now operating in this section of the state, ready to arrest anyone found shooting chickens out of season. Mr. Maurek does not believe there is as much of this as is reported, being confident most sportsmen recognize the necessity of observing the game laws in order to preserve the game.

One arrest has been made in this territory and a stiff fine administered.

TOWN PLANS OWN DEFENSE

Neché Caches Guns to Use Against Robbers

Neché, N. D., isn't going to take a chance on being raided by bank yeggs or others of the several varieties of night maurauders who have been making merry with small towns of the state.

Neché, responding to Governor Nestor's appeal, has armed itself to repel any invaders, having cached supplies of guns at several convenient places in the business district and elsewhere in the town, to the end that they may be readily available in time of emergency.

Sheriff Kelland of Cavalier county has undertaken the establishment of an effective organization in every town in that county, Langdon, the county seat, having already added additional night patrol service.

Grafton and Park River have taken similar steps, while St. Thomas has adopted a plan for meeting yeggs that citizens there regard as wholly effective, but they haven't divulged their scheme of operations.

Richland county is being well organized to combat outlawry. Sheriff R. V. McMichael, who has the hearty co-operation of State's Atty. W. L. Divet, is appointing deputies in each community. These deputies will hold office as long as deemed needed.

FAIR QUALITY WHEAT FOUND

Seven of 12 Samples Weigh No. 1 Grade in County

Good quality of wheat will be produced in Burleigh county this year, according to A. W. Snow, agent Russell-Miller Milling Company, in charge of the elevators here. Making a trip into Burleigh county to get samples of wheat for gluten test, Mr. Snow found out of 12 samples that seven would weigh 58 to 61 pounds per bushel, which is No. 1; one would make 57; three 56 and one 54 pounds. The samples are to be sent into the milling company laboratory, where the gluten test will be made.

Some farmers north of Bismarck are just starting to cut wheat while south they are through—nearly two weeks difference in the ripening in a short distance, he said.

WEARS SHOES FOR 21 YEARS

Minot, Aug. 18.—Bert Hartman, well known Glenburn farmer, was in Minot Tuesday, wearing a pair of shoes which he bought at the Boyer & Lindberg store in Minot 21 years ago. They are low shoes with rubber soles and Mr. Hartman has been using them mainly about the house. He has had them half a sole once. He paid two dollars for the shoes and they look as though they might be good for another twenty years.
